004-07 SEPARATE WORLDS, SEPARATE LIVES 不同的世界, 不同的生活

Table of Contents

1. SEPARATE WORLDS, SEPARATE LIVES 不同的世界, 不同的生活

---

1. SEPARATE WORLDS, SEPARATE LIVES 不同的世界, 不同的生活

The strike-boycott of 1925–1926 showed that /outside influences 系 were never fully able to transform (v.)使改变形态；使改观；使转变 Chinese nationalism in Hong Kong into anticolonialism 反殖民主义.

Many Chinese remained loyal (a.) to the colonial government, and Canton politics were too divided (a.) and volatile (a.)易变的；动荡不定的 to create (v.) and sustain any serious anticolonial feelings.

On the contrary, the strike strengthened (v.) many Hong Kong people’s appreciation 理解；明白；感激 for the colony’s political and economic stability —especially in contrast to 与…形成对比 the political turbulence 动荡；骚乱；混乱 in neighboring (a.) Guangdong —and reaffirmed (v.)重申；再次确定 their sense of belonging 归属感 and commitment (n.) 献身；投入；承诺 to Hong Kong.

As sociologist 社会学家 Henry Lethbridge explains, “Hong Kong had come of age 成熟；达到法定年龄 in 1925: it was no longer simply a congeries (n.)堆积；聚集体 of various groups, composed of 由…组成 acquisitive (a.)贪得无厌的；渴求获取财物的, rootless (a.)无根的；无归属感的, transient (a.)短暂的；转瞬即逝的；临时的 individuals, but was beginning to coalesce (v.)联合；合并；结合 into a community and, if all racial 种族的 divisions 分部, 部门 are included, into a plural (a.)复数的；多样的，多元的 society 多元社会, 独立主格（伴随状） its members bound (v.) together 捆绑在一起；约束在一起, as it were 仿佛,可以说；在某种程度上, 状 in a network of contractual (依据合同的；契约的) arrangements (契约安,合同关系) 在一个契约安排的网络中.

正如社会学家 Henry Lethbridge 所解释的，“香港在 1925 年已经成熟了：它不再仅仅是一个由各种群体组成的集合体 (这些群体是由贪婪的、无根的、短暂的个人组成的)，而是开始凝聚成一个社区，并且，如果将所有种族划分都包括在内的话，凝聚成一个多元社会，其成员 (这些成员仿佛是被绑定在一起的) 被绑定在一个契约安排的网络中。

Example 1. 案例

As sociologist Henry Lethbridge explains, “Hong Kong had come of age in 1925: ① it was no longer simply a congeries (n.) of various groups, 后定说明 composed of acquisitive

(a.), rootless (a.), transient (a.) individuals, ② but was beginning to coalesce (v.) ① into a community and, if all racial divisions are included, ② into a plural society, 独立主格(伴随状) its members bound (v.) together, as it were, in a network of contractual arrangements.

its members bound together：这是一个"独立主格结构"，逻辑主语是 its members，逻辑谓语是过去分词 bound。它相当于一个"非限制性定语从句" whose members were bound together，在句中作"伴随状语"，补充说明"社会凝聚"的具体状态。翻译时需处理为“其成员被绑定在一起”。 in a network of contractual arrangements 在一个契约安排的网络中 (这是介词短语，作状语，说明被 bound together (绑定)在何种介质中)

coalesce

→ co-,表强调，-al,生长，词源同 adult, adolescence(青春期，青春).即长到一块。

It had begun to acquire (v.) an identity 身份；特征；特性.”

Example 2. 案例

The strike-boycott of 1925–1926 showed that outside influences were never fully able to transform Chinese nationalism in Hong Kong into anticolonialism.
Many Chinese remained loyal to the colonial government, and Canton politics were too divided and volatile to create and sustain any serious anticolonial feelings.
On the contrary, the strike strengthened many Hong Kong people’s appreciation for the colony’s political and economic stability—especially in contrast to the political turbulence in neighboring Guangdong—and reaffirmed their sense of belonging and commitment to Hong Kong.
As sociologist Henry Lethbridge explains, “Hong Kong had come of age in 1925: it was no longer simply a congeries of various groups, composed of acquisitive, rootless, transient individuals, but was beginning to coalesce into a community and, if all racial divisions are included, into a plural society, its members bound together, as it were, in a network of contractual arrangements.
It had begun to acquire an identity.” 22

1925-1926 年的罢工和抵制表明, 外部影响始终未能将香港的中国民族主义完全转化为反殖民主义。许多中国人仍然效忠殖民政府, 而广州的政治局势过于分裂和动荡, 无法形成和维持任何严肃的反殖民情绪。相反, 罢工增强了许多香港人对殖民地政治和经济稳定的欣赏——尤其与邻近广东的政治动荡形成鲜明对比——并重申了他们对香港的归属感和承诺。正如社会学家亨利·莱斯布里奇（Henry Lethbridge）所解释的那样, “香港在 1925 年已经成熟：它不再仅仅是由贪婪、无根、漂泊不定的个体组成的各种群体的集合体, 而是开始凝聚成一个共同体, 如果将所有种族差异都考虑 在内, 则是一个多元社会, 其成员仿佛被束缚在一个契约网络中。它开始形成自己的身份认同。”

22

Even though they could come together to combat 战斗；与...作斗争 strikes, the Chinese and British communities lived (v.) largely separate lives.

Often blaming (v.) the failure to mix (v.) with Chinese on the latter’s（两者之中的）后者的 preference (n.)偏爱，偏好 for not mixing (v.) with foreigners, the British created (v.) an extensive 广泛的；大量的；广阔的 social world 后定说明 that revolved (v.)旋转 around clubs, music, parties, formal dinners, and the annual (a.) St.George’s and St.Andrew’s balls 舞会.

Example 3. 案例
blame A on B : 把 A 归咎于 B

blame A on B(人) :把 A 归咎于 B blame B /for A(事) : 因 A, 责备 B

例
- He blamed the failure on his partner. 他把失败归咎于搭档。
- They blamed the driver for the accident. 他们因事故责备司机。

blame

英 /bleɪm/ 美 /bleɪm/ 全球发音

简明 牛津 新牛津 韦氏 柯林斯 例句

v. n.

blame /bleɪm/

[VN] ~ sb/sth (for sth) | ~ sth on sb/sth to think or say that sb/sth is responsible for sth bad把...归咎于；责怪；指责

- She doesn't blame anyone for her father's death.她没把她父亲的死归罪于任何人。
- A dropped cigarette is being blamed for the fire.一支乱扔的烟被指为引起这场火灾的罪魁祸首。
- Police are blaming the accident on dangerous driving.警方把事故原因归咎于危险驾驶。

英国人常常将自己未能与中国人融入相处, 归咎于中国人不愿与外国人交往，于是他们构建了一个庞大的社交圈，这个圈子以"俱乐部、音乐、派对、正式晚宴, 以及一年一度的圣乔治舞会和圣安德鲁舞会"为核心。

主 British men who worked for firms such as the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank 谓 were expected to participate in bank-sponsored 赞助的；资助的 sports such as cricket 板球 that were seen as vital 至关重要的；必不可少的 for both physical 身体的；肉体的 and mental health and for meeting (v.) European colleagues 同事 后定说明 in other firms.

在香港上海银行等公司工作的英国男性，被期望参与银行赞助的板球等体育运动。这些运动被视为对身心健康, 以及与其他公司的欧洲同事交往, 都至关重要。

Chinese were generally excluded from 被排除在...之外 most of these activities, as 如同 were most Eurasians (as late as the 1940s, for example, Chinese and Eurasians could not join the Cricket Club).

Example 4. 案例

Table 1. 这里 as were most Eurasians 使用了倒装结构。

Header 1	Header 2
▶ DeepSeek:	这是一个典型的 as + be/助动词 + 主语 的倒装句式，用于表示“也...”或“和...一样”。 为了强调这种“相似性”，英语习惯将 be动词（或助动词）提前，形成倒装。 这种倒装主要有两个作用： - 避免重复：省略了与主句相同的谓语动词 excluded，使句子更简洁。 - 强调相似性：通过倒装，将 as和 were放在句首，强调了“欧亚混血人”与“中国人”处于完全相同的处境。 又例: • He is a doctor, as is his wife.（他是一名医生，他妻子也是。） • She works very hard, as do all her colleagues.（她工作非常努力，她的所有同事也是如此。）
▶ ChatGPT:	这叫做 “so/neither/as 引导的附和倒装” 的一种变体，用来避免重复前面的内容。 这种结构其实和下面这些表达是同一类逻辑： So did I. Neither did he. As did many others. 例如：He opposed the plan, as did several other members. 展开就是：several other members also opposed the plan. 又如： • The policy angered many merchants, as did the new tax law. 这项政策激怒了许多商人，新税法也是如此。 • The reform failed to satisfy workers, as did the previous proposal. 这项改革没能让工人满意，之前的提案也是如此。

In both the colonial government and the European firms, there was a level that Chinese simply could not rise above 超越,胜过,克服.
European firms hired (v.) Chinese staffs, but almost never at the upper levels.
The Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank had a policy of not having any Chinese on its board 董事会；理事会.

This often provoked 激起；引发；挑起 resentment 怨恨；愤恨 among the Chinese who had been educated at English schools and universities.

Example 5. 案例

Even though they could come together to combat strikes, the Chinese and British communities lived largely separate lives.
Often blaming the failure to mix with Chinese on the latter’s preference for not mixing with foreigners, the British created an extensive social world that revolved around clubs, music, parties, formal dinners, and the annual St.George’s and St.Andrew’s balls.
British men who worked for firms such as the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank were expected to participate in bank-sponsored sports such as cricket that were seen as vital for both physical and mental health and for meeting European colleagues in other firms.

Chinese were generally excluded from most of these activities, as were most Eurasians (as late as the 1940s, for example, Chinese and Eurasians could not join the Cricket Club).
In both the colonial government and the European firms, there was a level that Chinese simply could not rise above.
European firms hired Chinese staffs, but almost never at the upper levels.
The Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank had a policy of not having any Chinese on its board.
This often provoked resentment among the Chinese who had been educated at English schools and universities.

尽管华人社区和英国人社区可以联合起来对抗罢工, 但他们的生活方式却基本各自独立。英国人常常将与华人社区难以融合的原因归咎于华人不愿与外国人交往, 并构建了一个庞大的社交圈, 围绕着俱乐部、音乐、派对、正式晚宴以及一年一度的圣乔治舞会和圣安德鲁舞会展开。在香港上海汇丰银行等公司工作的英国男性被要求参加银行赞助的体育活动, 例如板球, 这些活动被认为对身心健康至关重要, 也是结识其他公司欧洲同事的绝佳机会。华人通常被排除在这些活动之外, 大多数欧亚混血儿也同样如此（例如, 直到20世纪40年代, 华人和欧亚混血儿都不能加入板球俱乐部）。在殖民政府和欧洲公司中, 华人似乎都无法晋升到更高的职位。欧洲公司会雇用华人员工, 但几乎从不在高层任职。香港上海汇丰银行的政策是不让任何华人进入董事会。这常常引起在英国学校和大学接受过教育的中国人的不满。

Foreign firms generally had strict, though often unwritten, rules (n.) about their employees becoming (动名词) involved with Chinese women.

外资公司通常有严格的、尽管往往是非书面的规定，禁止其员工与中国女性谈恋爱 / 发生亲密关系。

Example 6. 案例

Table 2. 我问:这里为什么用的是 becoming 这种 ing 形式?

Header 1	Header 2
▶ DeepSeek:	这里使用 becoming 是因为 about是一个介词，而介词后面必须接"名词"或"动名词"（即 -ing形式）。 becoming involved with Chinese women 是一个"动名词短语"，整体充当介词 about的宾语。
▶ Gemini:	rules (n.) about their employees becoming (动名词) involved with Chinese women. • 为什么用了 becoming (带ing)？因为前面的核心词是 about。在英语语法中，介词（如 about, in, of, for 等）后面如果需要接动词，这个动词必须变成 -ing 形式（即"动名词"），作为该介词的宾语。 • 那中间的 their employees 是干嘛的？这在语法上叫作动名词的复合结构。 如果你说 rules about becoming involved，意思是不管谁卷入都不行。加上 their employees，是明确了"谁"卷入这件事。
▶ ChatGPT:	这里的 becoming，不是“现在分词”，而是充当 "动名词"（gerund）。关键原因只有一个：前面有介词 about。 介词后面如果接动词，这个动词必须变成 -ing 动名词形式。 注意： becoming involved with Chinese women 不是单纯的“成为”， 而是一个固定表达：be involved with someone 意思是：“和某人有恋爱或亲密关系”。

很多学习者会把 -ing 一律理解成“现在进行”，其实那只是其中一种功能。英语里的 -ing 形式有三种常见角色：
1.谓语（进行时）

2.动名词（像名词一样使用）
3.现在分词做状语（给整个句子补充背景信息，相当于一个被压缩的状语从句。）

下面来说说第三种:
现在分词状语, 描述的是主句主语所处的情境、原因、时间或结果。

它有几种常见语义:

Header 1	Header 2
时间（when / after）	Having finished his work, he went home. = After he had finished his work, he went home. 这里用 having finished 是因为动作先发生。
原因（because / since）	Knowing the risks, she refused the offer. = Because she knew the risks, she refused the offer.
结果（thus / thereby）	The policy lowered (v.) tariffs, encouraging foreign trade. = The policy lowered tariffs, and this encouraged foreign trade.
条件	Turning left, you will see the station. ≈ If you turn left, you will see the station.
伴随情况	He sat at the table, reading a newspaper. ≈ He sat at the table while he was reading a newspaper.

这里有一个非常重要的原则，几乎所有语法书都会强调：
分词状语的"逻辑主语"，必须和"主句主语"一致。

如：

- Walking down the street, he saw an old friend.
  这里 “walking” 的人是 he。
- 如果写成：✗ Walking down the street, the trees looked beautiful.
  就变成"树在走路"了，这叫 dangling participle（悬垂分词）。

一个简单的区分方法是： 如果 -ing 短语可以改写成 when / because / after 从句， 那它大概率是 分词做状语。

英语语言像在做信息压缩：将时间关系、因果关系都被折叠进一个小小的 -ing 里。

European officers of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank were discouraged (v.)不被鼓励；被劝阻 from marrying (v.) non-British women; until World War II /no bank officer had married a Chinese.

Although marriage between European civil servants 公务员 and non-European women 谓 was not legally forbidden 禁止；不准, it was discouraged.

Some members of the Public Works Department 公共工程部门 had to sign an agreement that if they married Chinese women or took Chinese concubines 妾；小妾 they could be dismissed 解雇；开除; those who married Chinese or Eurasians were not allowed to live (v.) in government quarters 城镇的区（或一部分）;（士兵、服务人员等的）宿舍；住宅区.

A few higher-ranking 高层的；高级别的 officers did marry (v.) Chinese, but this was frowned (v.)皱眉 upon 不赞成；反对 /and ruined (v.) their chances for being promoted 晋升；升职 to another position in a different colony.

European policemen who married Chinese or Eurasians 谓 were not allowed to reenlist (v.)重新入伍；续约;延长服役 after their contracts expired 到期；失效.

Example 7. 案例

Foreign firms generally had strict, though often unwritten, rules about their employees becoming involved with Chinese women.
European officers of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank were discouraged from marrying non-British women; until World War II no bank officer had married a Chinese.
Although marriage between European civil servants and non-European women was not legally forbidden, it was discouraged.
Some members of the Public Works Department had to sign an agreement that if they married Chinese women or took Chinese concubines they could be dismissed; those who married Chinese or Eurasians were not allowed to live in government quarters.
A few higher-ranking officers did marry Chinese, but this was frowned upon and ruined their chances for being promoted to another position in a different colony.
European policemen who married Chinese or Eurasians were not allowed to reenlist after their contracts expired.

外国公司通常对员工与中国女性交往有严格的规定, 尽管这些规定往往不成文。香港上海汇丰银行的欧洲籍官员被劝阻不要与非英国籍女性结婚；直到二战前, 还没有银行官员娶过中国人。虽然法律上并不禁止欧洲公务员与非欧洲籍女性结婚, 但这种行为并不被鼓励。公共工程部的一些成员必须签署协议, 承诺如果他们与中国女性结婚或纳中国妾, 将被解雇；与中国人或欧亚混血儿结婚的人不得居住在政府宿舍。少数高级官员确实娶了中国人, 但这受到谴责, 并断送了他们在其他殖民地晋升的机会。与中国人或欧亚混血儿结婚的欧洲警察, 在合同到期后不得续签服役合同。

The general feeling (n.) among Europeans was that /Hong Kong was not a healthy place for European children to grow up.
These children were sent to schools in England or in China, where the weather was better /and it was easier to get to Hong Kong for the holidays.

Those who stayed in Hong Kong 谓 generally attended one of the special schools for Europeans.
Eurasians usually went to Diocesan (a.n.)主教管区的 Boys’ School or Diocesan Girls’ School, while Chinese attended (v.) one of the government schools, such as Queen’s College or King’s College.

Example 8. 案例

Header 1	Header 2
Diocesan Boys’/Girls’ School (拔萃男书院/女书院)	• 身份标签： 圣公会（教会）背景，欧亚混血儿 (Eurasians) 的首选。 • 背景： “Diocesan” 意为“教区的”。这两所学校由"英国圣公会"创办。 • 定位： 在当时的社会等级中，欧亚混血儿处于一个尴尬的中间位置——他们既不完全属于欧洲人圈子，也不完全被传统华人社会接纳。拔萃提供的是纯正的英式教育，但对族裔的包容度比专门给欧洲人开办的学校（如山顶学校）要高。 • 特色： 强调英语能力和西方文化，很多中西联姻家庭的后代（如文中的何东家族成员）曾就读于此。

Header 1	Header 2
Queen’s College & King’s College (皇仁书院与英皇书院)	• 身份标签： 政府官立学校，华人精英 的摇篮。 • 皇仁书院 (Queen’s College)： 前身是中央书院，是香港第一所官立中学。它被视为华人在殖民地社会向上流动的“直通车”。 • 英皇书院 (King’s College)： 同样是顶尖的官立男校，以科学教育和严谨校风著称。 • 定位： 招收最优秀的华人子弟。虽然教育语言也是英语，但这些学校是为殖民政府培养华人买办、翻译和中层公务员的基地。

当时的教育分流:
顶层（欧洲人）： 最好不留在香港（送回英国），留在香港的读“欧洲人专用学校”。
中层（混血/西化家庭）： 进入 Diocesan 系列，利用英语优势连接中西。
华人精英层： 进入 Queen’s/King’s，通过优异成绩在殖民体制内获得一席之地。
底层华人： 通常只在私塾或教会义学接受简单的初等教育，很难进入上述学校。

Many expatriates 侨民；移居国外的人 lived (v.) in constant fear /that the Chinese would rise against 反抗，抵抗 them.
In June 1934, five young European children were allegedly 据称；据说 thrown into a ditch 沟；沟渠 by a Chinese man.
One child was killed, his body later found in the sea.

Example 9. 案例

The general feeling among Europeans was that Hong Kong was not a healthy place for European children to grow up.
These children were sent to schools in England or in China, where the weather was better and it was easier to get to Hong Kong for the holidays.
Those who stayed in Hong Kong generally attended one of the special schools for Europeans.
Eurasians usually went to Diocesan Boys’ School or Diocesan Girls’ School, while Chinese attended one of the government schools, such as Queen’s College or King’s College.
Many expatriates lived in constant fear that the Chinese would rise against them.
In June 1934, five young European children were allegedly thrown into a ditch by a Chinese man.
One child was killed, his body later found in the sea. 欧洲人普遍认为香港不适合欧洲儿童成长。这些孩子被送往英国或中国上学, 那里气候宜人, 假期也更容易回香港。留在香港的孩子通常就读于专门为欧洲人设立的学校。欧亚混血儿通常就读于拔萃男书院或拔萃女书院, 而华裔则就读于政府学校, 例如皇后书院或英皇书院。许多外籍人士生活在恐惧之中, 担心华人会起来反抗他们。1934年6月, 据称一名华人男子将五名欧洲幼童扔进沟渠。其中一名儿童溺亡, 尸体后来在海中被发现。

Some Chinese and Eurasian leaders tried to curb 抑制；控制 the racial discrimination 种族歧视 that permeated 弥漫；遍布；渗透 Hong Kong society.

In 1921 主 leaders of the various communities —including Jose Pedro Braga, later the first Portuguese 后定说明 appointed to the Legislative Council, and Lo Man Kam, the prominent Eurasian solicitor 事务律师 — 谓 formed (v.) the League 联盟，同盟 of

Fellowship, whose goal was to eliminate (v.)消除；排除；根除 “racial disabilities” /and to “promote (v.) good fellowship 友谊；交情；伙伴关系 within the Colony, irrespective (a.)不考虑的；不顾的 of race, class and creed (n.)宗教信仰；信条；教义.”

1921年，各个社群的领袖——包括后来成为首位被任命为立法局成员的葡萄牙人 Jose Pedro Braga，以及著名的欧亚裔律师 Lo Man Kam ——成立了联谊社，其目标是消除“种族障碍”，并“在殖民地内促进友好情谊，不论种族、阶级和信仰”。

For the most part 多半；在很大程度上, however, the various communities continued to keep their distance from 与.....保持距离 each other —almost comfortably (adv.)舒服地；安乐地.

然而，在大多数情况下，各个社群仍然彼此保持距离——这种状态几乎还挺自在。

主 The political scientist 政治学家 who visited Hong Kong on the eve of 在.....前夕 World War II 谓 explained that / “主 the racial bitterness 种族仇恨；怨恨 which has caused (v.) so much trouble in India 谓 is not found in Hong Kong, although British and Chinese have separate (a.) clubs and, on the whole 总的来说, 主 social intercourse （人们之间的）交际，沟通；性交，交媾 between the races 谓 is limited.

Many individuals however are on friendly terms 关系友好；和睦相处; and perhaps also 主 one 谓 may hazard (v.)冒失地提出，冒险猜测 the guess 冒昧猜测；大胆猜测 that the Chinese is too content 满足的；满意的 with the society of those of his own race to trouble (v.) himself with 为某事费心,烦恼 his exclusion 排斥；排除在外,拒绝 from European circles.

然而，许多人之间关系友好；并且，人们或许还可以大胆猜测：中国人安于自己同胞的圈子，因此不必为"被排除在欧洲人社交圈之外"而烦恼。

Example 10. 案例
too ... to ... 太..... 而不能.....

结构：too + 形容词 / 副词 + to do sth
含义：太..... 以至于不能做某事

本句：too content ... to trouble (v.) himself
太满足..... 以至于不必让自己烦恼

He has a robust (a.)坚定的；强健的；强烈的 sense of his own superiority 优越；优越感, and has none of the hypersensitiveness (n.)过度敏感；神经过敏 and inferiority (n.)低等，劣等；自卑 complex (情结；强烈（或过度）的关心（或忧虑）)自卑情结；自卑感 which make so many Indians, for example, bitterly (adv.) resent (v.)愤恨；怨恨；对.....感到不满 their exclusion from Western society.

他有着强烈的自我优越感，丝毫没有那种敏感与自卑情结 —— 正是这种情结让许多印度人（举例而言）对自己被排斥在西方社会之外, 感到极度愤恨。

Example 11. 案例

- a robust sense：强烈的感觉
- inferiority complex 自卑感

- make sb. do sth. 使某人做某事

Example 12. 案例

Some Chinese and Eurasian leaders tried to curb the racial discrimination that permeated Hong Kong society.
In 1921 leaders of the various communities—including Jose Pedro Braga, later the first Portuguese appointed to the Legislative Council, and Lo Man Kam, the prominent Eurasian solicitor—formed the League of Fellowship, whose goal was to eliminate "racial disabilities" and to "promote good fellowship within the Colony, irrespective of race, class and creed." For the most part, however, the various communities continued to keep their distance from each other—almost comfortably.
The political scientist who visited Hong Kong on the eve of World War II explained that "the racial bitterness which has caused so much trouble in India is not found in Hong Kong, although British and Chinese have separate clubs and, on the whole, social intercourse between the races is limited.
Many individuals however are on friendly terms; and perhaps also one may hazard the guess that the Chinese is too content with the society of those of his own race to trouble himself with his exclusion from European circles.
He has a robust sense of his own superiority, and has none of the hypersensitiveness and inferiority complex which make so many Indians, for example, bitterly resent their exclusion from Western society." 23 一些华裔和欧亚裔领袖试图遏制当时香港社会普遍存在的种族歧视。1921 年, 包括后来成为首位进入立法会的葡萄牙裔人士何塞·佩德罗·布拉加（Jose Pedro Braga）和著名欧亚裔律师卢文锦（Lo Man Kam）在内的各族领袖成立了"同胞联盟", 其目标是消除"种族歧视", 并"促进殖民地内各族人民的友好情谊, 不分种族、阶级和信仰"。然而, 在大多数情况下, 各族群之间仍然保持着一定的距离——这种距离感几乎是人之常情。二战前夕访问香港的政治学家解释说："在印度造成诸多问题的种族仇恨在香港并不存在, 尽管英国人和中国人各自拥有俱乐部, 而且总体而言, 不同种族之间的社交往来有限。然而, 许多人关系友好；或许我们还可以大胆猜测, 中国人过于满足于与同族人交往, 以至于不会在意自己被排除在欧洲人圈子之外。他们有着强烈的优越感, 不像许多印度人那样, 对被西方社会排斥感到愤恨, 并表现出过度敏感和自卑情结。" 23