005-03 THE JAPANESE OCCUPATION 日本占领时期

Table of Contents

1. THE JAPANESE OCCUPATION 日本占领时期

---

1. THE JAPANESE OCCUPATION 日本占领时期

Thus began the three years and eight months of “The Captured Territory 领土，版图 of Hong Kong,” 主 which although touted 吹嘘；吹捧；宣扬 as part of Japan’s “Great East Asian Co-Prosperity Sphere” 系 was little more than 只不过；仅仅是 Japanese colonialism.

Example 1. 案例

tout

→ 现词义可能改写自 toot,发出嘟嘟声， 鸣喇叭，引申词义大吹法螺，后用于指吹嘘，兜售，倒卖门票等。

英 /taʊt/ 美 /taʊt/ 全球发音

简明 牛津 新牛津 韦氏 柯林斯 例句 百科

v. n.

tout /taʊt/

1. [VN] ~ sb/sth (as sth) to try to persuade people that sb/sth is important or valuable by praising them/it标榜；吹捧；吹嘘
   - She's being touted as the next leader of the party.她被吹捧为该党的下一任领导人。
2. ~ (for sth) (especially BrE) to try to persuade people to buy your goods or services, especially by going to them and asking them directly兜售；推销

   [V]
   - the problem of unlicensed taxi drivers touting for business at airports没有执照的出租汽车司机在机场揽生意的问题

   [VN]
   - He's busy touting his client's latest book around London's literary agents.他正忙于向伦敦各文学作品代理人兜售他的委托人的一部新书。
3. [V , VN] (BrE) (NAmE also scalp) to sell tickets for a popular event illegally, at a price that is higher than the official price, especially outside a theatre, stadium , etc. (尤指在剧院、体育场等外) 倒卖高价票，卖黑市票

Despite their anticolonial 反殖民的 rhetoric 花言巧语；言辞；论调, the Japanese quickly transformed Hong Kong from a British colony into a Japanese one.

Example 2. 案例
rhetoric

→ rhetoric（修辞学）来自希腊语rhetorike techne（art of an orator，演说家的技巧）。

英 /ˈretərɪk/ 美 /ˈretərɪk/ 全球发音

简明 牛津 新牛津 韦氏 柯林斯 例句

rhet·oric n. /ˈretərɪk/

[U]

1. (formal, often disapproving) speech or writing that is intended to influence people, but that is not completely honest or sincere华而不实的言语；花言巧语
   - the rhetoric of political slogans政治口号的虚华辞藻
   - empty rhetoric空洞的花言巧语
2. (formal) the skill of using language in speech or writing in a special way that influences or entertains people修辞技巧；修辞

   SYN eloquence, oratory

Statues 雕像 of British royalty 王室成员；皇族 were removed, while street and place names 地名 were replaced with Japanese names (Queen’s Road, for example, became Meiji Road).

Even the racehorses 比赛用马 at Happy Valley were bestowed 授予；给予 with Japanese names.

Example 3. 案例
bestow

→ 前缀be-, 强调。stow, 保存，放置。此处指授予。

英 /bɪˈstəʊ/ 美 /bɪˈstoʊ/ 全球发音

简明 牛津 新牛津 韦氏 柯林斯 例句

be·stow v. /bɪˈstəʊ/

[VN]~ sth (on/upon sb) (formal) to give sth to sb, especially to show how much they are respected（将...）给予，授予，献给

- It was a title bestowed upon him by the king.那是国王赐给他的头衔。

The new rulers also Japanized (v.)使日本化 the landscape 景观；景色 with various monuments 纪念碑；历史遗迹 and a cemetery 墓地；公墓 in Causeway 堤道；铺道 Bay 铜锣湾 for the Japanese horses killed during the invasion, to which Chinese residents were forced to bow 鞠躬；低头.

Example 4. 案例
causeway

横跨水面或湿地的凸起的道路或小路

→ 来自词根calc, 石子，石灰，词源同calculate, chalk. 指用石子或石灰铺的路。

英 / ˈkɔːzweɪ /　美 / ˈkɔːzweɪ /　全球发音

简明　牛津　新牛津　韦氏　柯林斯　例句　百科

cause·way n. /ˈkɔːzweɪ/

a raised road or path across water or wet ground（穿越水面或湿地的）堤道

A causeway is a raised road or pathway built across low, wet, or submerged ground, allowing people and vehicles to cross water, marshland, or other terrain that would otherwise be impassable. Unlike a bridge, which spans open water from above, a causeway typically sits on or near the surface, supported by packed earth, stone, or concrete fill. Some causeways are permanently above water, while others are designed to be submerged during high tide or heavy rainfall.

堤道是一种建在低洼、潮湿或被水淹没的地面上的高架道路或通道，能让行人和车辆穿越原本无法通行的水域、沼泽地或其他地形。与从上方跨越开阔水域的桥梁不同，堤道通常位于地表或接近地表的位置，由压实的泥土、石块或混凝土填充物支撑。有些堤道始终高于水面，而另一些则设计成在涨潮或暴雨时会被淹没。

Replacing the Gregorian（与）罗马教皇格利高里（有关）的 calendar 公历；阳历 with the Japanese calendar (based on the contemporary 当代的；现代的 emperor’s reign 统治；统治时期), the Japanese introduced their own holidays, such as the emperor’s birthday, the Yasukuni 靖国神社 Festival for Japanese war dead 阵亡将士, and Empire Day or National Foundation Day 建国纪念日.

日本用日本历法（以当代天皇的统治时期为基础）取代了公历，并引入了自己的节日，如天皇诞辰、祭奠日本战死者的靖国神社祭典，以及帝国纪念日或建国纪念日。

In May 1943, the new authorities 当局；官方 established the East Asia Academy 学院；研究院 to introduce potential government servants 公务员, teachers, and businessmen to Japanese morals and customs.

As an official Japanese publication 出版物；刊物 explained, since Hong Kong was now a “Hong Kong for the East Asians,” it was time for the “poisonous (a.)有毒的；有害的 remains of British cultural leftovers 残留物；剩饭菜” to be “thoroughly 彻底地；完全地 eradicated (v.)根除；消灭；杜绝.”

Example 5. 案例

Thus began the three years and eight months of “The Captured Territory of Hong Kong,” which although touted as part of Japan’s “Great East Asian Co-Prosperity Sphere” was little more than Japanese colonialism.
Despite their anticolonial rhetoric, the Japanese quickly transformed Hong Kong from a British colony into a Japanese one.

Statues of British royalty were removed, while street and place names were replaced with Japanese names (Queen’s Road, for example, became Meiji Road).
Even the racehorses at Happy Valley were bestowed with Japanese names.
The new rulers also Japanized the landscape with various monuments and a cemetery in Causeway Bay for the Japanese horses killed during the invasion, to which Chinese residents were forced to bow.
Replacing the Gregorian calendar with the Japanese calendar (based on the contemporary emperor’s reign), the Japanese introduced their own holidays, such as the emperor’s birthday, the Yasukuni Festival for Japanese war dead, and Empire Day or National Foundation Day.
In May 1943, the new authorities established the East Asia Academy to introduce potential government servants, teachers, and businessmen to Japanese morals and customs.
As an official Japanese publication explained, since Hong Kong was now a “Hong Kong for the East Asians,” it was time for the “poisonous remains of British cultural leftovers” to be “thoroughly eradicated.”3

于是，长达三年零八个月的“香港占领区”开始了。尽管日本将其标榜为“大东亚共荣圈”的一部分，但实际上却沦为日本殖民统治的温床。尽管日本人高喊反殖民口号，但他们迅速将香港从英国殖民地变成了日本殖民地。英国皇室的雕像被移除，街道和地名也被替换成日语名称（例如，皇后大道变成了明治道）。就连跑马地的赛马也被赋予了日语名字。新的统治者还通过各种纪念碑和铜锣湾的马匹墓地来“日本化”香港的景观，这些纪念碑和墓地是为了安葬在入侵中被杀死的日本战马，中国居民被迫向这些纪念碑鞠躬。日本人用日本历（以当时的日本天皇在位年为准）取代了公历，并引入了自己的节日，例如天皇诞辰、为纪念日本战争死难者的靖国神社以及帝国日或建国日。 1943 年 5 月，新当局成立了东亚学院，旨在向未来的政府官员、教师和商人介绍日本的道德和习俗。正如一份日本官方出版物所解释的那样，既然香港现在是“东亚人的香港”，就应该“彻底清除”英国文化残余的“毒害”。[3]

Although they portrayed their invasion as liberation from colonialism, as elsewhere 别处，别的地方 in their new empire /主 the Japanese in Hong Kong 谓 soon showed that they could be far more brutal than the British had ever been.

尽管他们将自己的入侵描绘成从殖民主义中解放出来，但与在其新帝国的其他地方一样，在香港的日本人很快就表明，他们可能比英国人残暴得多。

On January 4, 1942, all of Hong Kong’s British, American, and Dutch residents were arrested.

The Japanese displayed 展示；显露 their victory over the British for Hong Kong’s non-European population to see, parading (v.)游行；展示 prisoners of war 战俘 through the streets /and forcing (v.) Allied 同盟国的 captives 俘虏；囚徒 ① to bow (v.) to Chinese, pull rickshaws 人力车，② and clean (v.) the streets.

Most of the British civilians 平民；百姓 were imprisoned in Stanley, on the south side of Hong Kong Island, while the military 军事的；军用的 prisoners were held at a former British camp 营地；兵营 at Sham Shui Po in Kowloon.

Although most of the Americans were repatriated 遣返回国，主 the head of the Stanley internment (n.)拘留；关押 camp, Frank Gimson, who had arrived as colonial secretary the day before the Japanese invasion, 谓 insisted that /the British civilians remain (v.) in Hong Kong as a show of force.

尽管大多数美国人已被遣返，但赤柱拘留营的负责人弗兰克·吉姆森——他在日军入侵前一天才以辅政司的身份抵达——坚持要求英国平民留在香港，以此展示实力。

Example 6. 案例
我问: 把英国平民留在香港底能展现力量, 这个想法有道理么? 你怎么看?

► DeepSeek:

Frank Gimson 的想法，是基于以下殖民统治思维：

- 象征性存在即主权：留下英国平民（哪怕是作为囚犯）是一种物理上的“主权宣示”。他们的存在本身就在声明：“香港仍是英国的事，我们的人还在这里。”
- 主动撤走所有平民可能被视为“彻底放弃”。英国必须维持一种尊严和不屈的形象。
- 对本地人的心理影响：这是最关键的一点。吉姆森希望通过英国平民的“留守”，向香港的华人社会, 和中国大陆的抗日力量, 传递一个信息：英国没有“抛弃”香港，其统治权威和存在感, 并未因军事失败而完全消失。
- 当然也要付出代价, 即平民的牺牲.

Many civilian and military prisoners were executed 处决；处死； others died of disease and malnourishment 营养不良。

Example 7. 案例
malnourished

→ mal-,坏的，不良的，nourish,营养。

英 / ˌmælˈnʌrɪʃt /　美 / ˌmælˈnɜːrɪʃt /　全球发音

简明　牛津　新牛津　韦氏　柯林斯　例句　百科

mal·nour·ished adj. / ˌmælˈnʌrɪʃt /

in bad health because of a lack of food or a lack of the right type of food营养不良的

But even though Prime Minister 首相；总理 Tojo Hideki ordered that /the European prisoners have only the barest 裸露的,最少的；最基本的 of rations 配给量；定量口粮，the British in Hong Kong 谓 had it better than their counterparts 职位相当的人；对应的人 in some of the Japanese camps in Southeast Asia.

In Hong Kong, writes historian Philip Snow, “the keynote 主旨；基调 of their treatment was humiliation 屈辱；耻辱 rather than brutality 后定说明 for the sake of 为了...的利益/目的/原因 it.”
Still, the “combined shock of the defeat 失败；战败 and internment 拘留；收容” undermined (v.)逐渐削弱；损害 the “entire pre-war edifice (n.)大厦；结构；根基 of British supremacy (n.)至高无上；霸权 in Hong Kong.”

历史学家菲利普·斯诺写道，在香港，“他们对待（他人）的核心基调是羞辱，而非为了施暴而施暴的那种残忍。”尽管如此，“战败和被拘留的双重打击”还是动摇了“战前英国在香港的整个霸权体系。”

Example 8. 案例
sake

英 /seɪk/ 美 /seɪk/ 全球发音

简明 牛津 新牛津 韦氏 柯林斯 例句 百科

sake 1 sake 2

sake n. /seɪk/

——see also sake[2]

n

IDIOMS 习语

1. FOR CHRIST'S, GOD'S, GOODNESS', HEAVEN'S, PITY'S, ETC. 'SAKE

   used to emphasize that it is important to do sth or when you are annoyed about sth（强调重要或表示恼火）看在上帝份上，天哪，行行好吧，千万

   - Do be careful, for goodness' sake.千万要小心。
   - Oh, for heaven's sake!哎哟，天哪！
   - For pity's sake, help me!行行好，帮帮我吧！

2. FOR STH'S SAKE

   because of the interest or value sth has, not because of the advantages it may bring 为某事本身的缘故；鉴于某事本身的价值

   - I believe in education for its own sake.我相信教育本身就是有价值的。
   - art for art's sake为艺术而艺术

3. FOR THE SAKE OF SB/STH |FOR SB'S/STH'S SAKE

   in order to help sb/sth or because you like sb/sth 为了某人（或某事）起见；因某人（或某事）的缘故

   - They stayed together for the sake of the children.为了孩子，他们还待在一起。
   - You can do it. Please, for my sake.这个你是能做的。求你了，就算为了我。
   - I hope you're right, for all our sakes (= because this is important for all of us) .我希望你没事，这对我们大家都好。

4. FOR THE SAKE OF STH/OF DOING STH

   in order to get or keep sth 为获得（或保持）某物

   - The translation sacrifices naturalness for the sake of accuracy.这篇译文为求准确而不惜牺牲自然流畅。
   - She gave up smoking for the sake of her health.为保持身体健康，她戒了烟。
   - Don't get married just for the sake of it .不要为结婚而结婚。
   - Let's suppose, for the sake of argument (= in order to have a discussion) , that interest rates went up by 2%.为了便于讨论，不妨设想利率提高了2%。

   ——more at old

以上来源于: 牛津词典

Example 9. 案例

Although they portrayed their invasion as liberation from colonialism, as elsewhere in their new empire the Japanese in Hong Kong soon showed that they could be far more brutal than the British had ever been.

On January 4, 1942, all of Hong Kong’s British, American, and Dutch residents were arrested.

The Japanese displayed their victory over the British for Hong Kong’s non-European population to see, parading prisoners of war through the streets and forcing Allied captives to bow to Chinese, pull rickshaws, and clean the streets.

Most of the British civilians were imprisoned in Stanley, on the south side of Hong Kong Island, while the military prisoners were held at a former British camp at Sham Shui Po in Kowloon.

Although most of the Americans were repatriated, the head of the Stanley internment camp, Frank Gimson, who had arrived as colonial secretary the day before the Japanese invasion, insisted that the British civilians remain in Hong Kong as a show of force.

Many civilian and military prisoners were executed; others died of disease and malnourishment.
But even though Prime Minister Tojo Hideki ordered that the European prisoners have only the barest of rations, the British in Hong Kong had it better than their counterparts in some of the Japanese camps in Southeast Asia.
In Hong Kong, writes historian Philip Snow, "the keynote of their treatment was humiliation rather than brutality for the sake of it." Still, the "combined shock of the defeat and internment" undermined the "entire pre-war edifice of British supremacy in Hong Kong."[4]

尽管他们将入侵描绘成摆脱殖民统治的解放，但正如他们在新帝国的其他地方一样，日军在香港很快就展现出比英国人更加残暴的一面。1942 年 1 月 4 日，所有在香港的英国、美国和荷兰居民都被逮捕。日军向香港的非欧洲裔居民展示他们战胜英国的“胜利”，押着战俘游街示众，强迫盟军俘虏向中国人鞠躬、拉人力车、打扫街道。大多数英国平民被关押在香港岛南侧的赤柱，而军事俘虏则被关押在九龙深水埗的一处前英国战俘营。虽然大多数美国人被遣返回国，但赤柱战俘营的负责人弗兰克·吉姆森（Frank Gimson）——他在日军入侵前一天刚刚以殖民地大臣的身份抵达香港——坚持要求英国平民留在香港，以示武力。许多平民和军事俘虏被处决；其他人则死于疾病和营养不良。尽管东条英机首相下令只给欧洲战俘提供最基本的口粮，但香港的英国战俘的境遇却比东南亚一些日军战俘营中的战俘要好。历史学家菲利普·斯诺写道，在香港，“他们所受待遇的重点是羞辱，而非单纯的残暴”。然而，“战败和拘禁的双重打击”动摇了“战前英国在香港的统治根基”。[4]

主 Those who suffered the most, both in the invasion and during the occupation, 系 were the same people 后定说明 主 the Japanese 谓 repeatedly insisted (v.)宾从 were not their enemies: the Chinese.

在入侵期间以及占领过程中, 遭受最惨重苦难的人，正是日本人一再坚称"并非他们敌人"的同一群人：中国人。

Example 10. 案例
the Japanese 谓 repeatedly insisted (v.)宾从 were not their enemies: the Chinese.

这个宾语从句的完整形式应该是：
... insisted that Chinese people were not their enemies.

但原文进行了"倒装"和"同位语化"的处理：

- 先说结论：先说were not their enemies（不是他们的敌人）。这是一个"表语前置"的倒装句式，核心是“不是敌人”。
- 再点名主语：用冒号:引出这个动作/状态的主体 the Chinese（中国人），相当于一个主语同位语，对前面的“谁”不是敌人进行最终界定。

原文语序：... insisted that /were not their enemies: the Chinese.
正常语序：... insisted that /the Chinese were not their enemies.

核心陈述：日本人反复强调“不是敌人”。
具体是谁：（这个“不是敌人”的）是中国人。

这里的冒号:它起到解释、说明、列举的作用，相当于“即”、“也就是”。

它本质上是宾语从句 that the Chinese were not their enemies 的一个倒装省略变体.

The Japanese authorities 当局；官方 tried to reduce (v.) Hong Kong’s population by repatriating 遣返 the refugees who had come from China in the years leading up to 在...

之前；临近 the invasion.

In early January 1942, they announced that /anyone without residence 居住；住所 or employment 就业；工作 would have to leave.

Although the Japanese had a hard time enforcing (v.) this policy, within a year /Hong Kong’s population had dropped from more than 1.5 million to 1 million.

By the end of the occupation in August 1945, it was under six hundred thousand.

In three and a half years, at least ten thousand Hong Kong civilians 平民；百姓 were executed, while many others were tortured 折磨；拷问, raped, or mutilated (v.)使伤残；使残缺.

Army officers were even more vicious 残忍的；恶毒的 than their men, but the most systematically brutal were the Kempeitai 宪兵队, the notorious 臭名昭著的 Japanese military police who routinely performed executions by beheading 斩首；砍头 at King’s Park in Kowloon and used (v.) Chinese for shooting or bayonet 刺刀 practice.

Example 11. 案例
bayonet

→ 来自法国地名 Bayonne(海湾), 因首次生产该类型刀具而得名。

英 / ˈbeɪənət / 美 / ˈbeɪənət; ˌbeɪəˈnet; ˈbeɪənɪt / 全球发音

简明 牛津 新牛津 韦氏 柯林斯 例句 百科

n. v.

bay·onet /ˈbeɪənət/

/ˈbeɪənət/ a long, sharp knife that is fastened onto the end of a rifle and used as a weapon in battle枪刺；刺刀

Dorothy Lee, a social worker, recalled how everyone lived (v.) “in fear of the ‘midnight knock 半夜敲门.’ The Japanese might come to your door at any time to take over 接管；占据 your house or flat 公寓 and, in the early days, they came into rape.”
Lee saw 主 one Japanese corporal 下士 后定说明 known as “the killer” 谓 personally 亲自地，本人地；当面地 behead (v.) twelve civilians within several minutes.

李看到一个被称为“杀手”的日本下士, 在几分钟内亲手斩首了12名平民。

Example 12. 案例
corporal

→ 来自意大利语caporale, 来自词根cap, 头，见captain. 即小头领，拼写受词根corp影响。

英 / ˈkɔːpərəl / 美 / ˈkɔːrpərəl / 全球发音

简明 牛津 新牛津 韦氏 柯林斯 例句 百科

cor·poral n. /ˈkɔːpərəl/

(abbr. Cpl) a member of one of the lower ranks in the army, the marines or the British air force (陆军、海军陆战队或英国空军的) 下士

• Corporal Smith史密斯下士

Example 13. 案例

Those who suffered the most, both in the invasion and during the occupation, were the same people the Japanese repeatedly insisted were not their enemies: the Chinese.
The Japanese authorities tried to reduce Hong Kong’s population by repatriating the refugees who had come from China in the years leading up to the invasion.
In early January 1942, they announced that anyone without residence or employment would have to leave.
Although the Japanese had a hard time enforcing this policy, within a year Hong Kong’s population had dropped from more than 1.5 million to 1 million.
By the end of the occupation in August 1945, it was under six hundred thousand.
In three and a half years, at least ten thousand Hong Kong civilians were executed, while many others were tortured, raped, or mutilated.
Army officers were even more vicious than their men, but the most systematically brutal were the Kempeitai, the notorious Japanese military police who routinely performed executions by beheading at King’s Park in Kowloon and used Chinese for shooting or bayonet practice.
Dorothy Lee, a social worker, recalled how everyone lived “in fear of the ‘midnight knock.’ The Japanese might come to your door at any time to take over your house or flat and, in the early days, they came into rape.” Lee saw one Japanese corporal known as “the killer” personally behead twelve civilians within several minutes.5

在入侵和占领期间遭受苦难最深的，恰恰是日本人反复强调并非敌人的群体：中国人。日本当局试图通过遣返在入侵前几年从中国大陆涌入的难民来减少香港人口。1942 年 1 月初，他们宣布所有无居留权或无业人员必须离开。尽管日本人难以执行这项政策，但一年之内，香港人口就从 150 多万锐减至 100 万。到 1945 年 8 月占领结束时，香港人口已不足 60 万。在三年半的时间里，至少有一万名香港平民被处决，另有许多人遭受酷刑、强奸或残害。军官比士兵更加残暴，但最残暴的当属宪兵队，这支臭名昭著的日本宪兵队经常在九龙京士柏执行斩首处决，并强迫中国人进行射击或刺刀练习。社会工作者多萝西·李回忆说，当时每个人都生活在“午夜敲门”的恐惧之中。“日本人随时可能敲门，占领你的房子或公寓，在早期，他们还会强奸。”李亲眼目睹一名被称为“杀手”的日本下士在几分钟内斩首了十二名平民。5

Although the Japanese created (v.) countless atrocities 暴行；罪恶 throughout their empire, Hong Kong’s unique situation may have encouraged the scope 范围；程度 and intensity of this brutality 残暴；野蛮行为.

尽管日本人在其帝国范围内犯下了无数暴行，但香港的独特处境, 或许加剧了这种残暴行为的范围和强度。

As they did in Malaya, Indochina 中南半岛, and Indonesia, many Japanese administrators 行政官员；管理人员 and soldiers resented 愤恨；怨恨 the Chinese of Hong Kong for supposedly 据说；据称 having served (v.) their European overlords 霸主；统治者；宗主 so willingly.

Unlike the colonies of Southeast Asia, however, Hong Kong lacked the natural resources to make conquest (n.)征服；占领 worthwhile 值得的；有价值的.

Although the new regime 政权；政体 introduced (v.) a program for reopening (v.) factories to produce (v.) goods such as shoes 后定说明 made with rubber from Indochina and Malaya, the Japanese economic record was disastrous 灾难性的；极糟糕的.

尽管新政权推出了一项重启工厂的计划，以生产诸如用印度支那和马来亚的橡胶制成的鞋子等商品，但日本的经济表现却一塌糊涂。

Shortages and price increases were exacerbated 使恶化；加剧 by orders from Tokyo to confiscate (v.)没收；征用 anything of value /and send it to Japan.

东京下令没收所有有价值的东西并将其送往日本，这加剧了物资短缺和价格上涨。

Example 14. 案例
confiscate

→ con-, 强调。-fisc, 篮子，钱篓，词源同basket,fiscal.

英 / ˈkɒnfɪskeɪt /　美 / ˈkɑːnfɪskeɪt /　全球发音

简明　牛津　新牛津　韦氏　柯林斯　例句

con·fis·cate v. /ˈkɒnfɪskeɪt/

[VN] to officially take sth away from sb, especially as a punishment（尤指作为惩罚）没收，把...充公

- Their land was confiscated after the war.他们的土地在战后被没收。
- The teacher threatened to confiscate their phones if they kept using them in class.老师警告说，如果他们上课时继续使用手机就予以没收。

DERIVATIVES 派生词

con·fis·ca·tion [U,C] /ˌkɒnfɪˈskeɪʃn/ /ˌkɒnfɪˈskeɪʃn/ n

By late 1942, when the war was going badly for Japan, the governor tried even more vigorously 强有力地；积极地 to restrict (v.) Hong Kong’s scarce (a.)稀缺的；不足的 resources for the Japanese troops.

In January 1943, the Kempeitai 宪兵队（日本特务警察机构） set (v.) two German shepherds (牧师,牧羊人)德国牧羊犬 on a group of Chinese women 后定说明 who had been gathering grass for fuel 燃料.

1943年1月，宪兵队放了两条德国牧羊犬去攻击一群正在割草作燃料的中国妇女。

Example 15. 案例
这里Chinese women who had been gathering grass for fuel 中, 为什么用了 had been gathering，而没用 were gathering？

这里使用 had been gathering（过去完成进行时），是为了清晰地表达两个过去动作之间的时间先后关系，并强调动作的“持续性”与“相关性”。

- Were gathering：仅表示“当时正在采集”，是单一的、简单的过去动作，不涉及与另一个过去动作的先后关系。
- Had been gathering：表示“在（宪兵放狗）那个时间点之前，就已经在采集，并且可能持续了一段时间”。它明确了“采集”的动作先于“放狗”发生，并为“放狗”这个事件提供了背景。

had been doing（过去完成进行时）表示在过去的某个时间点(B时间点), 或另一个过去动作(B动作)之前，一个动作(A动作)已经开始、持续进行了一段时间，并且可能刚刚停止, 或仍在继续。它的核心是 “过去的过去” + “持续进行”。 即时间轴是:

-------A动作(先发生)-------B时间点/B动作(后发生)-------

关键词：for（长达...），since（自从...），when，before，by the time等常用于引出这个“过去的参照点”。

主要用于以下三种场景，它们的共同点是都需要一个过去的参照时间点(B时间点)。

Header 1	Header 2
场景一：强调动作的持续性与过程	表示一个动作(A动作), 在过去的某个时间点(B时间点)之前, 已经持续了多久。 -------A动作(先发生)-------B时间点/B动作(后发生)------- • By the time the police arrived, the suspect had been hiding in the attic for six hours. （警察到达时，嫌疑人已经在阁楼里躲了六个小时。） ----had been hiding (先发生)--------arrived(后发生)------ 参照点：警察到达（过去）。 持续动作：“躲藏”这个动作在“到达”之前就开始了，并持续了六小时。
场景二：解释过去某一状态的原因或背景	表示在过去的某个时间点(B时间点)，某个状态(A状态)是由一个持续到那时的动作(A动作)所导致的。 -------A动作(先发生)-------B时间点/B动作(后发生)------- • Her eyes were red because she had been crying.（她眼睛红红的，因为她一直哭来着。） a. 参照点/状态：眼睛红（过去）。 b. 原因：导致眼睛红的动作——“哭”，在“眼睛红”之前一直在持续。 c. 即: -------had been crying(先发生)------- were(后发生)------- • The ground was wet. It had been raining all night.（地面是湿的。下了一整夜的雨。） a. 参照点/状态：地面湿（过去）。 b. 原因：导致地湿的动作——“下雨”，持续了整夜，到我们看到湿地面时可能刚停。
场景三：表示动作刚刚停止或可能仍在继续	强调在过去的参照点，一个持续的动作刚刚完成，其影响或结果显而易见。 • I was out of breath because I had been running. （我上气不接下气，因为我刚刚一直在跑步。）

Header 1	Header 2
	“跑步”这个持续动作, 在“喘不过气”的时刻刚刚停止，但其结果（喘气）非常明显。 • When I found him, he had been waiting for me for over an hour. He was a little annoyed. （当我找到他时，他已经等了我一个多小时。他有点不高兴。） “等待”这个动作在我“找到他”的那个过去时刻, 可能刚刚停止，也可能还在继续，但重点是这个持续过程及其造成的结果（他不高兴）。

其他讲解

- German shepherd: 是一个固定名词，德国牧羊犬

- set on” 的意思是“使攻击、放...去袭击”，其宾语通常是具有攻击性的动物（如狗）。人（即使是牧羊人）通常不会被“放出去攻击”人群，但警犬/军犬会。

Only after the dogs had chewed 咀嚼，嚼碎；啃；咬 pieces of flesh out of them /were the women released.

As 主 the colony’s overseas trade 谓 suffered, by mid-1943 the food shortage became even more unbearable 难以忍受的.

Several hundred corpses 尸体 —some with parts of their thighs 大腿 and buttocks 臀部 removed for food — 谓 littered 乱扔；散落于 the streets every day, and many residents survived only by eating rats.

每天都有数百具尸体——其中一些的大腿和臀部部分, 被割去当作食物——散落在街道上，许多居民只能靠吃老鼠生存。

主 The weakening of central government control and the expansion of corruption that accompanied (v.) Japan’s failing war effort 谓 made conditions even worse /and “opened (v.) the way to an orgy (n.)放纵；狂欢 of private greed 贪婪，贪欲.”

随着日本战争努力的失败，中央政府控制力减弱，腐败现象蔓延，这使得局势愈发糟糕，“为私人贪婪的泛滥打开了大门”。

Uncontrolled and free to do *as it pleased, the Kempeitai in Hong Kong created an “empire 后定说明 unmatched 无与伦比的；无法匹敌的 by the Kempeitai branches in any other Japanese-occupied zone” /and “waxed (v.)给...上蜡 fat (脂肪，肥肉) 在...上捞油水、靠...发财 on the narcotics 麻醉品；毒品 trade.”

不受管控、可以随心所欲行事的香港宪兵队，建立了一个“日本占领区内任何其他宪兵分队都无法比拟的独立王国”，并“靠毒品贸易中饱私囊”。

Example 16. 案例

wax fat

Waxed：动词 wax的一个古老用法，意为 “增长，变大，变得” （to increase, to grow）。现代英语中已不常用在此意，多用于文学或固定表达（如 wax poetic变得诗意盎然）。
Fat：形容词，意为“肥胖的” ，比喻“富裕的、利润丰厚的”。

Waxed fat 合起来，字面是“变得肥胖” ，比喻为 “靠…养肥了自己”、 “靠…发了横财” ，带有强烈的贬义和批判色彩。

Example 17. 案例

Although the Japanese created countless atrocities throughout their empire, Hong Kong’s unique situation may have encouraged the scope and intensity of this brutality.
As they did in Malaya, Indochina, and Indonesia, many Japanese administrators and soldiers resented the Chinese of Hong Kong for supposedly having served their European overlords so willingly.
Unlike the colonies of Southeast Asia, however, Hong Kong lacked the natural resources to make conquest worthwhile.
Although the new regime introduced a program for reopening factories to produce goods such as shoes made with rubber from Indochina and Malaya, the Japanese economic record was disastrous.
Shortages and price increases were exacerbated by orders from Tokyo to confiscate anything of value and send it to Japan.
By late 1942, when the war was going badly for Japan, the governor tried even more vigorously to restrict Hong Kong’s scarce resources for the Japanese troops.
In January 1943, the Kempeitai set two German shepherds on a group of Chinese women who had been gathering grass for fuel.
Only after the dogs had chewed pieces of flesh out of them were the women released.
As the colony’s overseas trade suffered, by mid-1943 the food shortage became even more unbearable.
Several hundred corpses—some with parts of their thighs and buttocks removed for food—littered the streets every day, and many residents survived only by eating rats.
The weakening of central government control and the expansion of corruption that accompanied Japan’s failing war effort made conditions even worse and “opened the way to an orgy of private greed.” Uncontrolled and free to do as it pleased, the Kempeitai in Hong Kong created an “empire unmatched by the Kempeitai branches in any other Japanese-occupied zone” and “waxed fat on the narcotics trade.”6

尽管日本在其帝国境内犯下了无数暴行，但香港的特殊情况或许助长了这种暴行的规模和强度。如同在马来亚、印度支那和印度尼西亚一样，许多日本官员和士兵对香港华人心怀怨恨，认为他们心甘情愿地为欧洲统治者效力。然而，与东南亚殖民地不同，香港缺乏足以支撑日本征服的自然资源。尽管新政权推行了一项计划，重开工厂生产诸如用来自印度支那和马来亚的橡胶制成的鞋子等商品，但日本的经济记录却惨不忍睹。东京下令没收一切值钱的东西运回日本，加剧了物资短缺和物价上涨的局面。到1942年末，随着战争形势对日本不利，港督更加肆无忌惮地限制香港本就稀缺的资源，以供应日军。1943年1月，宪兵队放出两只德国牧羊犬，袭击了一群正在采集草料作为燃料的中国妇女。只有当恶犬从她们身上啃噬掉肉块后，这些妇女才被释放。随着殖民地海外贸易的衰落，到1943年中期，粮食短缺变得更加难以忍受。每天都有数百具尸体——有些尸体的大腿和臀部被割去食用——横尸街头，许多居民只能靠吃老鼠勉强生存。中央政府控制力的削弱以及伴随日本战争失败而来的腐败蔓延，使情况雪上加霜，“为私人贪婪的狂欢打开了方便之门”。“不受控制且为所欲为的香港宪兵队建立了一个‘其他任何日本占领区的宪兵队分支机构都无法比拟的帝国’，并且‘靠毒品交易发了财’。6

Despite some provisions 条款；规定 under the Japanese for educating Hong Kong’s poor, the education system practically fell apart 崩溃；瓦解.

尽管日本人制定了一些为香港穷人提供教育的条款，但教育系统实际上还是崩溃了。

Whereas 然而；尽管 more than one hundred thousand children were enrolled 注册；登记 in school before the war, by the end of the war /this number had plummeted 暴跌；骤降;

（尤指从高处）坠落 to around three thousand.

Example 18. 案例
plummet

→ 来自古法语plomet,铅，铅球，来自plomb,铅，铅球，词源同plumb.-et,小词后缀。比喻用法。

英 / ˈplʌmɪt /　美 / ˈplʌmɪt /　全球发音

简明　牛津　新牛津　韦氏　柯林斯　例句　百科

plum·met v. /ˈplʌmɪt/

[V] to fall suddenly and quickly from a high level or position暴跌；速降

SYN plunge

- Share prices plummeted to an all-time low.股票价格暴跌到历史最低点。
- Her spirits plummeted at the thought of meeting him again.一想到又要见到他，她的心情便直往下沉。
- The jet plummeted into a row of houses.那架喷气式飞机一头栽进一排房子里。

Yet any account 描述；叙述 of the Japanese occupation 谓 must also include some of the more positive changes.

Snow argues that /the Japanese brought (v.) more Chinese into the "central administration 中央管理机构 of the colony than the British had ever done."

主 The Japanese practice 做法；惯例 of delegating 委派；授权 tasks 谓 gave Chinese a larger role than under the British, while the Japanese also created a network of district bureaus 地区办事处, which the British never had.

与英国人统治时期相比，日本人委派任务的做法让中国人发挥了更大的作用，同时日本人还建立了一个地区办事处网络，这是英国人从未有过的。

Unlike the British, the Japanese went to great lengths 付出巨大努力,竭尽全力 to publicize (v.)宣传；公布 and explain their policies to the Chinese.

The Japanese also made some positive changes in public health and agriculture 农业.

With "something 后定说明 close to a mania 狂热；痴迷" for preserving public health —mainly to protect the health of Japanese soldiers —*they kept (v.) outbreaks of smallpox 天花 and cholera 霍乱 宾补 minor 轻微的 compared with the prewar years.

他们怀着"近乎狂热"的态度维护公共卫生—主要是为了保护日本士兵的健康——他们使天花和霍乱的爆发与战前相比较小

Example 19. 案例
they kept (v.) outbreaks of smallpox and cholera minor

他们使得天花和霍乱的疫情暴发规模较小

Example 20. 案例

Despite some provisions under the Japanese for educating Hong Kong’s poor, the education system practically fell apart.
Whereas more than one hundred thousand children were enrolled in school before the war, by the end of the war this number had plummeted to around three thousand.
Yet any account of the Japanese occupation must also include some of the more positive changes.
Snow argues that the Japanese brought more Chinese into the “central administration of the colony than the British had ever done.” 7 The Japanese practice of delegating tasks gave Chinese a larger role than under the British, while the Japanese also created a network of district bureaus, which the British never had.
Unlike the British, the Japanese went to great lengths to publicize and explain their policies to the Chinese.
The Japanese also made some positive changes in public health and agriculture.
With “something close to a mania” for preserving public health—mainly to protect the health of Japanese soldiers—they kept outbreaks of smallpox and cholera minor compared with the prewar years.8

尽管日军时期曾为香港贫困儿童提供一些教育，但教育体系实际上已经崩溃。战前，香港有超过十万名儿童入学，而到战争结束时，入学人数骤降至三千人左右。然而，任何对日占时期的描述都必须包含一些较为积极的改变。斯诺认为，日军让更多华人进入“殖民地中央行政机构”，其程度远超英国时期。 7 日军的委派制度赋予华人比英国时期更大的权力，同时，日军还建立了英国从未有过的地区局网络。与英国不同，日军不遗余力地向华人宣传和解释其政策。日军在公共卫生和农业方面也取得了一些积极进展。他们近乎狂热地维护公共卫生——主要是为了保护日本士兵的健康——使得天花和霍乱的爆发与战前相比大大减少。 8

Collaboration took (v.) different forms and assumed 呈现（外观、样子）；显露（特征），具有 various levels of intensity.

合作呈现出不同的形式，并具有不同程度的强度。

As soon as the Japanese flag was raised in Central District on December 27, Japanese flags appeared all over the area, and Hong Kong’s new rulers had no trouble finding recruits 新成员；招募人员 for their administration 管理部门；行政机构.

12月27日，日本国旗在中环升起，日本国旗在整个地区出现，香港的新统治者为他们的行政招募人员时毫不费力。

Some Chinese may have believed in Japan’s rhetoric 花言巧语；说辞 of “Asia for the Asians,” but 主 most people in Hong Kong, relieved (a.)感到宽慰的；放心的 that the invasion was over, 谓 collaborated simply to get by 勉强过活；凑合度日.

Example 21. 案例
relieved

英 /rɪˈliːvd/ 美 /rɪˈliːvd/ 全球发音

简明 牛津 韦氏 柯林斯 例句 百科

re·lieved adj. /rɪˈliːvd/

~ (that...)feeling happy because sth unpleasant has stopped or has not happened; showing this感到宽慰的；放心的；显得开心的

- She sounded relieved.她听上去很放心。
- You'll be relieved to know your jobs are safe.现在知道你们的工作保住了，可以放心了。
- I'm just relieved that nobody was hurt.谁都没有受伤，我深感宽慰。
- They exchanged relieved glances.他们如释重负地彼此看了看。

For the Eurasians who were recruited for the same kinds of clerical (a.)文书的；办事员的 and secretarial 秘书的；书记的 posts 职位；岗位 that they had held under the British /and had nowhere else to go, collaboration must have seemed a rather logical choice.

对于欧亚大陆人来说，他们在英国统治时期曾担任过同样的文书和秘书职位，无处可去，合作似乎是一个相当合乎逻辑的选择。

主 The writers for the Hong Kong News, which had been published before the war by Japanese businessmen /and was revived 恢复；重新开办 by the occupation authorities, 系 were mainly Eurasians and Indians.

《香港新闻》此前由日本商人在战前出版，后被占领当局复刊，该报的撰稿人主要是欧亚混血儿和印度人。

Many Eurasians and Portuguese 葡萄牙人 became brokers 经纪人；中间人 between the Japanese administration and the Chinese population, running various black or gray markets 黑市或灰市.

The Japanese also tried hard to win over 争取；拉拢;说服 the Indian population, promising to help them drive (v.) the British out of India.

Some Britons 英国人 also worked with the Japanese; for example, high-level bankers chose (v.) to collaborate to ensure (v.)确保；保证 some level of financial stability.

Similarly, P.S.Selwyn-Clarke, the former director 管理者，负责人 of medical services, worked with the Japanese for the sake of 为了；为了……的利益 the Chinese community and the interned 被拘留的；被软禁的 Europeans and prisoners of war 战俘.

Example 22. 案例

Collaboration took different forms and assumed various levels of intensity.
As soon as the Japanese flag was raised in Central District on December 27, Japanese flags appeared all over the area, and Hong Kong’s new rulers had no trouble finding recruits for their administration.
Some Chinese may have believed in Japan’s rhetoric of “Asia for the Asians,” but most people in Hong Kong, relieved that the invasion was over, collaborated simply to get by.

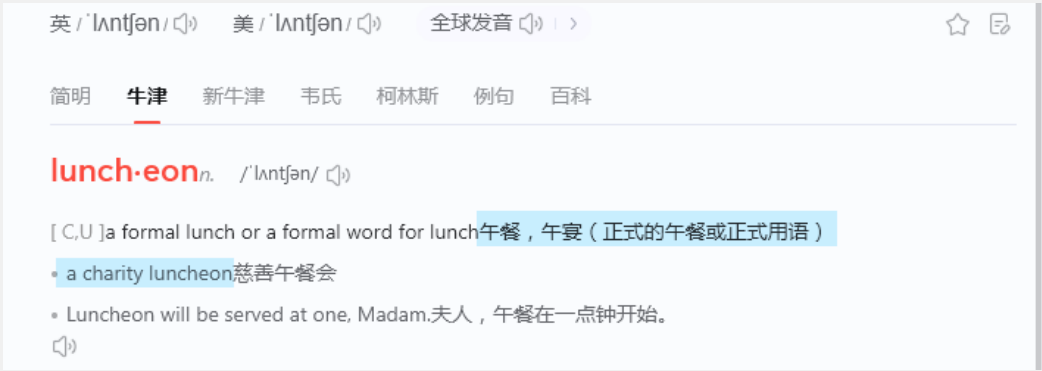
For the Eurasians who were recruited for the same kinds of clerical and secretarial posts that they had held under the British and had nowhere else to go, collaboration must have seemed a rather logical choice.
The writers for the Hong Kong News, which had been published before the war by Japanese businessmen and was revived by the occupation authorities, were mainly Eurasians and Indians.
Many Eurasians and Portuguese became brokers between the Japanese administration and the Chinese population, running various black or gray markets.
The Japanese also tried hard to win over the Indian population, promising to help them drive the British out of India.
Some Britons also worked with the Japanese; for example, high-level bankers chose to collaborate to ensure some level of financial stability.
Similarly, P.S.Selwyn-Clarke, the former director of medical services, worked with the Japanese for the sake of the Chinese community and the interned Europeans and prisoners of war.

合作的形式多种多样，强度也各不相同。12 月 27 日，日本国旗在香港中环升起后，日本国旗随即出现在香港各处，新统治者也毫不费力地招募人员加入其行政机构。一些中国人或许认同日本“亚洲人的亚洲”的口号，但大多数香港人，在侵略结束的喜悦中，为了生存而选择合作。对于那些被招募从事与英国统治时期相同文秘工作的欧亚混血儿来说，他们别无选择，只能继续从事文秘工作，因此合作似乎是一个合乎逻辑的选择。《香港新闻》的撰稿人主要由欧亚混血儿和印度人组成，该报战前由日本商人创办，后被占领当局恢复发行。许多欧亚混血儿和葡萄牙人成为日本政府与中国民众之间的中间人，经营着各种黑市或灰色市场。日本人还竭力拉拢印度民众，承诺帮助他们将英国人赶出印度。一些英国人也与日本人合作；例如，一些高级银行家选择与日本人合作，以确保一定程度的金融稳定。同样，前医疗服务主管塞尔温-克拉克也为了华人社区以及被拘禁的欧洲人和战俘的利益而与日本人合作。

To consolidate (v.)巩固；加强 their rule, the Japanese tried to recruit 招募；征召 the same community leaders who had worked with the British.

On January 10, 1942, two weeks after the British surrender, Lieutenant General 中将 Sakai invited (v.) some 130 of the leading Chinese and Eurasians to a formal luncheon 正式午餐会 at the Peninsula Hotel in Kowloon.

Example 23. 案例
luncheon



Sakai insisted that /the war in Hong Kong was against Britain, not China, and that the Chinese and Japanese should work together for the prosperity of all the races 种族；民族 of Greater East Asia.

Lieutenant General Isogai Rensuke, who became governor later that month, established two councils 委员会；理事会 consisting of Chinese and Eurasian leaders for managing (v.) the Chinese population.

On the Chinese Representative 代表 Council 系 were Robert Kotewall, the chair 主席；主持人;
Lau Tit-shing, manager of the Communications Bank 交通银行 and chairman of the Chinese Bankers' Association 协会；联合会;
Li Tse-fong, manager of the Bank of East Asia (which had maintained (v.) extensive 广泛的；大量的 contacts with Japanese firms before the war) and former unofficial member of the Legislative Council 立法会;
and Chan Lim-pak, who had once been comprador 买办 to the Hong Kong Shanghai Bank in Canton.

华人代表会的成员包括：...

The Chinese Cooperative (a.)合作的，协作的 Council, whose 22 members were selected by the Chinese Representative Council from the leading professionals, was chaired 担任主席 by Chow Shouson.

Example 24. 案例

To consolidate their rule, the Japanese tried to recruit the same community leaders who had worked with the British.
On January 10, 1942, two weeks after the British surrender, Lieutenant General Sakai invited some 130 of the leading Chinese and Eurasians to a formal luncheon at the Peninsula Hotel in Kowloon.
Sakai insisted that the war in Hong Kong was against Britain, not China, and that the Chinese and Japanese should work together for the prosperity of all the races of Greater East Asia.
Lieutenant General Isogai Rensuke, who became governor later that month, established two councils consisting of Chinese and Eurasian leaders for managing the Chinese population.
On the Chinese Representative Council were Robert Kotewall, the chair; Lau Tit-shing, manager of the Communications Bank and chairman of the Chinese Bankers' Association; Li Tse-fong, manager of the Bank of East Asia (which had maintained extensive contacts with Japanese firms before the war) and former unofficial member of the Legislative Council; and Chan Lim-pak, who had once been comprador to the Hong Kong Shanghai Bank in Canton.
The Chinese Cooperative Council, whose 22 members were selected by the Chinese Representative Council from the leading professionals, was chaired by Chow Shouson.

为了巩固统治，日本人试图招募那些曾与英国人合作过的社区领袖。1942年1月10日，英国投降两周后，酒井中将邀请约130位华裔和欧亚裔领袖在九龙半岛酒店举行正式午宴。酒井强调，香港战争是针对英国而非中国，华裔和日裔应该携手合作，为大东亚各族人民的繁荣而努力。当月晚些时候就任香港总督的矶贝廉介中将成立了两个由华裔和欧亚裔领袖组成的委员会，负责管理华裔居民。华裔代表委员会成员包括：主席罗伯特·科特沃尔；交通银行经理兼华人银行家协会主席刘铁成；东亚银行经理（该银行在战前与日本企业保持着广泛的联系）兼前立法会非正式成员李泽峰；还有曾任香港上海汇丰银行广州买办的陈林柏。中国合作社理事会, 由中国代表理事会 从业内顶尖专业人士中选出的22名成员组成，主席是周寿臣。

Some Chinese leaders were enthusiastic 热情的；热心的；热烈的 about working with the Japanese.

Lau Tit-shing, for example, was president 会长；主席；负责人 of the Chinese-Japanese Returned-Students 归国留学生 Association 协会；社团；联盟 and, according to sociologist 社会学家 Henry Lethbridge, was "very pro-Japanese," having been "thoroughly 彻底地；完全地；仔细地 brainwashed (v.)对……洗脑；强行灌输思想 by his early education in Japan."
When Lau died in April 1945, he was honored by the Japanese governor.

Chan Lim-pak had been arrested by the British during the Japanese invasion on charges 指控；控告 of "defeatist (a.n.)失败主义的；悲观的 talk" and aiding (v.) the enemy.

He was killed in 1944 by an American bomber while en route 在途中；在前往……的路上 to Japan.

But most Chinese and Eurasian leaders probably collaborated (v.) with the Japanese in the same way 以同样的方式 the majority of Hong Kong's population did: "with reluctance (n.) and misgiving (n.)疑虑，担忧，不安, and as a matter of physical survival." 作为身体生存的必要之举

Fear and pragmatism 实用主义；务实精神 were no doubt strong reasons for collaborating, as was preserving (v.) their own class interests.

但大多数中国和欧亚裔的领导人, 与日本人合作的方式, 可能与大多数香港人一样："出于不情愿和疑虑，以及为了生存。"恐惧和实用主义无疑是合作的有力理由，就像保护他们自己的阶级利益一样。

Example 25. 案例
as was preserving (v.) their own class interests.

as 引导"方式状语从句" + 倒装

as was preserving their own class interests = as 主 preserving their own class interests 系 was (strong reason) as = 正如…… 一样

为了避免头重脚轻，把系动词 was 提前，主语后置。

又例:

- She was tall, as was her mother. 她很高，她母亲也一样。
- He loved music, as was common in his family. 他热爱音乐，这在他家很普遍。

And many collaborated (v.) with the Japanese to help the local community.

Indeed, three colonial officers testified 作证；证明；证实 after the war that they had met secretly with Chow Shouson and Robert Kotewall shortly before the fall of Hong Kong /and requested that they cooperate with the Japanese to protect the interests of the Chinese community.

主 That there was so little Chinese resentment 怨恨；愤恨；不满 toward the two Chinese councils during the occupation 谓 suggests that most Chinese understood that the Chinese and Eurasian leaders had to cooperate.

Example 26. 案例

Some Chinese leaders were enthusiastic about working with the Japanese.
Lau Tit-shing, for example, was president of the Chinese-Japanese Returned-Students Association and, according to sociologist Henry Lethbridge, was "very pro-Japanese," having been "thoroughly brainwashed by his early education in Japan." 9 When Lau died in April 1945, he was honored by the Japanese governor.
Chan Lim-pak had been arrested by the British during the Japanese invasion on charges of "defeatist talk" and aiding the enemy.
He was killed in 1944 by an American bomber while en route to Japan.
But most Chinese and Eurasian leaders probably collaborated with the Japanese in the same way the majority of Hong Kong's population did: "with reluctance and misgiving, and as a matter of physical survival." 10 Fear and pragmatism were no doubt strong reasons for collaborating, as was preserving their own class interests.
And many collaborated with the Japanese to help the local community.
Indeed, three colonial officers testified after the war that they had met secretly with Chow Shouson and Robert Kotewall shortly before the fall of Hong Kong and requested that they cooperate with the Japanese to protect the interests of the Chinese community.
That there was so little Chinese resentment toward the two Chinese councils during the occupation suggests that most Chinese understood that the Chinese and Eurasian leaders had to cooperate.

一些华人领袖热衷于与日本人合作。例如，刘铁成是中日归国学生会会长，据社会学家亨利·莱斯布里奇（Henry Lethbridge）称，他"非常亲日"，因为他"在日本接受的早期教育彻底洗脑"。 9 刘铁成于 1945 年 4 月去世时，受到日本总督的追悼。陈林柏在日本入侵期间被英国人以"宣战言论"和"援助敌人"的罪名逮捕。1944 年，他在前往日本的途中被美国轰炸机击毙。但大多数华人及欧亚混血领袖与日本人的合作方式，可能与香港的大多数民众一样："出于不情愿和疑虑，以及为了生存而合作"。 10 恐惧和实用主义无疑是他们合作的重要原因，维护自身阶级利益也是如此。许多人与日本人合作也是为了帮助当地社区。事实上，战后有三名殖民地官员作证称，他们在香港沦陷前不久曾与周寿締和罗伯特·科特沃尔秘密会面，请求他们与日军合作，以保护华人社区的利益。在日占时期，华人对这两个华人委员会几乎没有怨恨，这表明大多数华人都明白，华人与欧亚领导人必须合作。

Just as 正像 主 collaboration during the Japanese occupation 谓 took many forms, so did resistance 抵抗；反抗；抵制.

正如日本占领期间, 有多种形式的合作一样，抵抗也是如此。

As they had under the British, many Chinese simply ignored the regulations and proclamations 公告；宣言；声明 issued by the Japanese authorities.

Chinese staff in the governor's office often failed to show up 如约赶到；出现；露面 for their mandatory 强制的；义务的；法定的 Japanese classes; clerks at Chinese-run department stores refused to sell goods to Japanese, pretending that they were out of stock; and entire schools moved to unoccupied 未被占领的；无人居住的 parts of the mainland rather than comply with the new curriculum 课程；课程体系.

总督府里的中国职员, 常常不参加必修的日语课；中国人经营的百货公司里的店员会假装缺货，拒绝把商品卖给日本人；还有整所学校搬到大陆的非敌占区，以此来抵制新的课程设置。

By summer 1943, people in Hong Kong realized that the war no longer favored (v.)支持；对……有利 the Japanese.
By 1944, Chinese and Eurasian leaders started to avoid their duties on the two Chinese councils.

Example 27. 案例

Just as collaboration during the Japanese occupation took many forms, so did resistance. As they had under the British, many Chinese simply ignored the regulations and proclamations issued by the Japanese authorities.
Chinese staff in the governor’s office often failed to show up for their mandatory Japanese classes; clerks at Chinese-run department stores refused to sell goods to Japanese, pretending that they were out of stock; and entire schools moved to unoccupied parts of the mainland rather than comply with the new curriculum.
By summer 1943, people in Hong Kong realized that the war no longer favored the Japanese.
By 1944, Chinese and Eurasian leaders started to avoid their duties on the two Chinese councils.

正如日占时期合作的形式多种多样，抵抗的形式也同样如此。如同在英国统治时期一样，许多华人干脆无视日本当局颁布的规章制度和公告。总督府的华人工作人员经常缺席强制性的日语课程；华人经营的百货商店的店员拒绝向日本人出售商品，谎称缺货；甚至有整所学校为了不遵守新的课程安排，迁往大陆未被占领的地区。到了1943年夏天，香港民众意识到战争的局势已不再对日本有利。到了1944年，华人及欧亚领导人开始逃避他们在两个华人委员会的职责。

Given Hong Kong’s urban nature, most organized resistance occurred in the rural New Territories, especially along the Chinese border.

鉴于香港的城市性质，大多数有组织的抵抗活动, 发生在新界农村地区，尤其是中国边境地区。

Led by Lindsay Ride, a professor 教授 at the University of Hong Kong and a member of the Volunteer Defence Corps 志愿防卫队 who had escaped from the Sham Shui Po 地名 prison camp, and with help from local Chinese such as Paul Tsui, a recent graduate 毕业生 of the University of Hong Kong, 主 the British Army Aid Group (BAAG) 谓 helped European and Chinese residents escape (v.) from Hong Kong, gathered (v.) intelligence, and rescued (v.) Allied 同盟国的 airmen 飞行员；航空兵 shot down by the Japanese.

在香港大学教授、从深水埗战俘营逃脱的志愿防护团成员林赛·赖德的带领下，在香港大学应届毕业生徐保罗等当地华人的帮助下，英国陆军辅助团（BAAG）帮助欧洲和华人居民逃离香港，收集情报，并营救被日军击落的盟军飞行员。

Example 28. 案例
British Army Aid Group (BAAG) [1942-1945]

The British Army Aid Group (BAAG) was a military intelligence unit which operated in China between March 1942 and December 1945, originally as a branch of MI9. The officers were mainly European men with a Hongkong connection, and the operative agents were mostly local Hongkong men and women who offered their services, often at great risk, in occupied Hongkong and outside, in the fight for the restoration of their home and freedom. Throughout the the war the BAAG provided unique intelligence - military, political and economic - about conditions in both Hongkong and China; they also gave medical and humanitarian assistance to civilians and military alike, and eventually were able to play a part in the restoration of legal rule in Hongkong.

英国陆军辅助团（BAAG）是一个军事情报单位，1942年3月至1945年12月间在中国开展活动，最初是军情九处（MI9）的一个分支。该团的军官主要是与香港有联系的欧洲男性，而执行任务的特工则大多是当地的香港男女，他们在被占领的香港及其周边地区提供服务，常常冒着巨大风险，为恢复家园和自由而战。在整个战争期间，英国陆军辅助团提供了关于香港和中国局势的独特情报——包括军事、政治和经济方面；他们还向平民和军人提供医疗及人道主义援助，并最终在恢复香港的法治方面发挥了作用。

Based in Guilin in southern China, the BAAG was technically 严格来讲；从技术上说 a noncombat 非战斗的 unit of the Indian Army.

By late 1942, the Chinese Nationalists 中国国民党 had revived 恢复；重新建立 an underground movement, while the Communist guerrillas 游击队员 of the East River Column 东江纵队 were active in the New Territories and in the urban areas of Hong Kong.

Despite the mutual suspicions 怀疑；猜忌 among the British, Nationalists, Communists, and their respective 各自的 agendas 日程；议程；计划, this joint (a.) resistance helped to break down 使倒塌或破碎,消除；破除 racial divisions 分歧；隔阂；差异 between Britons and Chinese and to create a “camaraderie (n.)友情；同志情谊 unimaginable in the pre-war years.”

Example 29. 案例

Given Hong Kong’s urban nature, most organized resistance occurred in the rural New Territories, especially along the Chinese border.
Led by Lindsay Ride, a professor at the University of Hong Kong and a member of the Volunteer Defence Corps who had escaped from the Sham Shui Po prison camp, and with help from local Chinese such as Paul Tsui, a recent graduate of the University of Hong Kong, the British Army Aid Group (BAAG) helped European and Chinese residents escape from Hong Kong, gathered intelligence, and rescued Allied airmen shot down by the Japanese.
Based in Guilin in southern China, the BAAG was technically a noncombat unit of the Indian Army.
By late 1942, the Chinese Nationalists had revived an underground movement, while the Communist guerrillas of the East River Column were active in the New Territories and in the urban areas of Hong Kong.
Despite the mutual suspicions among the British, Nationalists, Communists, and their respective agendas, this joint resistance helped to break down racial divisions between Britons and Chinese and to create a “camaraderie unimaginable in the pre-war years.” 11

鉴于香港的城市特性，大多数有组织的抵抗运动都发生在新界乡村地区，尤其是在与中国接壤的地区。由香港大学教授、曾从深水埗战俘营逃脱的义勇军成员林赛·赖德领导，并得到香港大学应届毕业生徐保罗等当地华人协助，英国陆军援助团（BAAG）帮助欧洲和中国居民逃离香港，收集情报，并营救被日军击落的盟军飞行员。英国陆军援助团总部设在中国南方桂林，名义上是印度陆军的非战斗部队。到 1942 年末，国民党已恢复地下抵抗运动，而东江纵队的共产党游击队则在新界和香港市区活动。尽管英国人、国民党人和共产党人之间存在着相互猜忌，并且各自怀有不同的政治目的，但这种联合抵抗有助于打破英国人和中国人之间的种族隔阂，并创造了一种“战前难以想象的友谊”。 11