In November 1948, Qiao Mu, head of the local branch of the CCP’s New China News Agency, assured the Hong Kong government that a new Communist government would not bother Hong Kong and that it would even allow the colonial government to provide refuge to Nationalist leaders.

1949年10月中华人民共和国成立后，英国和香港的反应既焦虑又如释重负。香港的大多数华人只是庆幸内战终于结束。蒋介石的国民党政权在台湾岛重建了中华民国，但其信誉已荡然无存（尽管香港亲蒋报纸当时呼吁将香港归还中华民国）。新成立的中华民国政府似乎并未直接威胁到英国在中国的商业利益，而中国共产党也从未真正关心过香港的收复。毛泽东主席曾称香港为“那座荒岛”，据报道，他在1946年告诉一位英国记者，他和中国共产党都对香港不感兴趣，只要英国不虐待香港华人，他就不会让香港的地位损害中英关系。 1948年11月，中共新华社香港分社社长乔木向香港政府保证，新的共产党政府不会骚扰香港，甚至会允许殖民政府为国民党领导人提供庇护。

Example 8. 案例

Still, the months leading up to the Communist victory had been tense for Sino-British relations and for both the government and the population of Hong Kong.
In April 1949, Communist batteries in the lower reaches of the Yangzi River shelled a British warship, HMS Amethyst, killing the ship’s captain.
The Amethyst escaped to Hong Kong, where the British community greeted its crew members as heroes and the British press portrayed the escape in gallant terms, but the incident humiliated both the Royal Navy and Britain.
Although they doubted that the Communists would try to attack Hong Kong, the British government began to reinforce Hong Kong’s garrison, while the Hong Kong government cracked down on local Communist activities by detaining left-wing journalists and breaking up Communist-run groups.
In August 1949, the Legislative Council passed special public security legislation that gave the governor wide powers of censorship and included measures reminiscent of those passed during the Second Opium War: requiring identification cards for all residents over twelve years of age and granting the police wide powers to search private residences and to arrest and deport “undesirables.” Although Communist troops stopped at the Hong Kong border on October 17, 1949, after arriving in Canton two days earlier, to many in Hong Kong it had seemed a very close call.

尽管如此，在共产党取得胜利前的几个月里，中英关系以及香港政府和民众都处于紧张状态。1949 年 4 月，长江下游的共产党炮兵炮击了英国军舰“紫水晶”号，舰长阵亡。“紫水晶”号逃往香港，英国侨民将船员们奉为英雄，英国媒体也对这次逃亡进行了英勇的报道，但这一事件令英国皇家海军和英国蒙羞。尽管英国政府怀疑共产党不会进攻香港，但他们还是开始加强香港的驻军，而香港政府则通过拘留左翼记者和解散共产党控制的团体来镇压当地的共产党活动。 1949 年 8 月，立法会通过了特别的公共安全法，赋予总督广泛的审查权，其中包括一些与第二次鸦片战争期间通过的法案类似的措施：要求所有 12 岁以上的居民佩戴身份证，并赋予警方广泛的权力，可以搜查私人住宅，逮捕并驱逐“不受欢迎的人”。尽管共产党军队在 1949 年 10 月 17 日抵达香港边境后，于两天前抵达广州，但对许多香港人来说，这似乎是一次非常惊险的局面。

Given that the Communist government of China was dedicated to 致力于 ending colonialism and imperialism 帝国主义 worldwide, why did it tolerate British colonialism in its own backyard 自家后院；周边地区? The Communists reassured 使安心；使消除疑虑 the British that /they would not try to recover Hong Kong after they took power /and ordered their troops not to cause (v.) too much trouble as they approached the Hong Kong border.

Example 9. 案例

Given that the Communist government of China was dedicated to ending colonialism and imperialism worldwide, why did it tolerate British colonialism in its own backyard? Especially compared with the dramatic and often cataclysmic changes that characterized the first decades of the PRC, the new government’s policy toward Hong Kong remained consistently levelheaded and sophisticated.
Hong Kong had in fact been an important base for the Communist movement throughout the Chinese civil war.
In 1947, the CCP established its Central Hong Kong Bureau (renamed the Central South China Bureau in early 1949).
Through the New China News Agency, the CCP spread propaganda within Hong Kong, in China, and among overseas Chinese communities.
The CCP trained cadres in the safety of colonial Hong Kong and made an “organized and consistent effort” to recruit members from local schools and factories.20 When the Communists marched toward victory in 1949, they were more concerned with gaining control of northern China.
The Communists reassured the British that they would not try to recover Hong Kong after they took power and ordered their troops not to cause too much trouble as they approached the Hong Kong border.

鉴于中国共产党政府致力于在全球范围内终结殖民主义和帝国主义，为何却容忍英国在其后院的殖民统治？尤其与中华人民共和国成立初期几十年间剧烈且往往是灾难性的变革相比，新政府对香港的政策始终保持着冷静和老练。事实上，在整个中国内战期间，香港一直是共产党运动的重要基地。1947 年，中共设立了香港中央局（1949 年初更名为华南中央局）。中共通过新华社在香港、中国大陆以及海外华人社区传播宣传。中共在殖民地香港的安全环境下训练干部，并“有组织、持续地”从当地学校和工厂招募党员 。20 当共产党在 1949 年走向胜利时，他们更关注的是控制中国北方。共产党人向英国人保证，他们夺取政权后不会试图收复香港，并命令军队在接近香港边境时不要制造太多麻烦。

The Communists' policy toward Hong Kong after their victory in the civil war 系 was equally pragmatic 务实的；讲求实际的.

As Steve Tsang puts it 正如……所说, for the PRC government /the Hong Kong issue was "somewhere between foreign policy and domestic policy."

Because the British had obtained (v.) Hong Kong through the first of the unequal treaties 不平等条约 (which the PRC government quickly renounced 声明放弃；拒绝承认), Hong Kong was an internal Chinese matter 内部事务 that would eventually be resolved peacefully through diplomacy 外交；外交手段.

由于英国是通过第一个不平等条约获得香港的（中华人民共和国政府很快就宣布废止了这些条约），因此香港问题是中国的内部事务，最终将通过外交途径和平解决。

Remittances (n.)汇款；侨汇 from overseas Chinese would provide (v.) valuable foreign exchange 外汇 to help rebuild China’s war-torn (a.)遭受战争破坏的 economy, while the colony would be a base for importing (v.) goods that China could not produce.

Example 14. 案例

The Communists’ policy toward Hong Kong after their victory in the civil war was equally pragmatic.
As Steve Tsang puts it, for the PRC government the Hong Kong issue was “somewhere between foreign policy and domestic policy.” 21 Because the British had obtained Hong Kong through the first of the unequal treaties (which the PRC government quickly renounced), Hong Kong was an internal Chinese matter that would eventually be resolved peacefully through diplomacy.
Encouraging nationalism in a colony full of anti-Communist refugees would be at best futile and at worst foolhardy, perhaps even pushing local Chinese toward Chiang Kai-shek’s regime on Taiwan.
(Governor Grantham recalled that the PRC government had a hard time agitating Chinese refugees in Hong Kong, “for the refugees had fled from the communist paradise, and had no love for the government of China.”)22 Even more dangerous, other powers—and the United Nations—might intervene if the Communists tried to foment any anticolonial struggles in Hong Kong.
The colony could be of great use to China, just as it had been for more than a century, as a window to the outside world.

Remittances from overseas Chinese would provide valuable foreign exchange to help rebuild China’s war-torn economy, while the colony would be a base for importing goods that China could not produce.

共产党在内战胜利后对香港的政策同样务实。正如曾志伟所言，对中华人民共和国政府而言，香港问题“介于外交政策和内政政策之间”。 21 由于英国是通过第一份不平等条约（中华人民共和国政府很快便废除了该条约）获得香港的，因此香港问题属于中国内政，最终将通过外交途径和平解决。在一个充斥着反共难民的殖民地煽动民族主义，充其量是徒劳的，最坏的情况则是愚蠢的，甚至可能将当地华人推向蒋介石在台湾的政权。（格兰瑟姆总督回忆说，中华人民共和国政府很难煽动香港的中国难民，“因为这些难民逃离了共产主义的天堂，对中国政府毫无好感。”）22 更危险的是，如果共产党试图在香港煽动任何反殖民斗争，其他列强——以及联合国——都可能介入。这片殖民地对中国来说可能大有裨益，就像过去一个多世纪以来一样，它一直是中国了解外部世界的窗口。海外华人的汇款将为中国重建饱受战争蹂躏的经济提供宝贵的外汇，同时，这片殖民地还可以成为进口中国无法生产的商品的基地。

The Chinese government also realized that Hong Kong might be used (v.) to push Britain and the United States apart from each other vis-à-vis 关于；与……相比；相对于 their policy in East Asia.

Shortly after the outbreak of the Korean War, Premier Zhou Enlai ordered Huang Zuomei, head of the New China News Agency in Hong Kong, to obey the CCP’s policy of leaving Hong Kong alone, reminding Huang of Hong Kong’s use (n.) in overcoming 克服困难 the U.S. and United Nations 联合国 embargoes 禁运；贸易禁令 /and dividing 使分裂；使分开；使产生分歧 Britain and the United States in their China policies.

朝鲜战争爆发后不久，周恩来总理命令新华社香港分社社长 Huang Zuomei，遵守中国共产党的“暂不收回香港”政策，并提醒 Huang 香港在突破美国封锁方面的作用。

In 1951, Politburo（共产党中央委员会的）政治局 member Peng Zhen explained that taking Hong Kong would be too difficult and would cause problems in China’s international relations.

Instead, Peng argued, it would be better to maintain Hong Kong’s status quo 现状；原来的状况 and to use the colony for rebuilding China’s economy.
It would be “unwise for us to deal with the problem of Hong Kong rashly 轻率地；鲁莽地；贸然地 and without preparation.”

Example 15. 案例

The Chinese government also realized that Hong Kong might be used to push Britain and the United States apart from each other vis-à-vis their policy in East Asia.
Shortly after the outbreak of the Korean War, Premier Zhou Enlai ordered Huang Zuomei, head of the New China News Agency in Hong Kong, to obey the CCP’s policy of leaving Hong Kong alone, reminding Huang of Hong Kong’s use in overcoming the U.S. and United Nations embargoes and dividing Britain and the United States in their China policies.
In 1951, Politburo member Peng Zhen explained that taking Hong Kong would be too difficult and would cause problems in China’s international relations.
Instead, Peng argued, it would be better to maintain Hong Kong’s status quo and to use the colony for rebuilding China’s economy.
It would be “unwise for us to deal with the problem of Hong Kong rashly and without preparation.” 23

中国政府也意识到，香港问题可能被用来离间英国和美国在东亚政策上的立场。朝鲜战争爆发后不久，周恩来总理命令新华社驻香港社长黄作梅遵守中共关于香港不干涉的政策，并提醒黄作梅，香港曾被用来突破美国和联合国的禁运，以及在对华政策上离间英美两国。1951 年，政治局委员彭真解释说，吞并香港难度太大，会给中国的国际关系带来问题。彭真认为，最好维持香港现状，利用这片殖民地重建中国经济。“贸然、不加准备地处理香港问题是不明智的。” 23

This does not, however, mean (v.) that /the relationship between Hong Kong and the new China was always a smooth one.

Shortly after closing the border with Hong Kong, Guangdong authorities placed loudspeakers 扬声器 at Lo Wu 地名 and Man Kam To 文锦渡 (the two main crossing points 交叉口), blasting 猛烈抨击；大声斥责 criticism 批评；指责 at the British and Hong Kong governments.

After a fire in November 1951 left some ten thousand people homeless, in March 1952 a violent confrontation occurred between the colonial police and protesting crowds after a comfort mission from Canton was stopped at the border.

One protester was shot dead, more than one hundred were arrested, and twelve were deported.
After local left-wing newspapers tried to stir up anti-British feelings and some ten thousand sympathizers protested the shooting, the government shut down for six months the pro-Beijing newspaper Ta Kung Pao, which had reprinted an article from the People’s Daily (the CCP’s main national newspaper) criticizing the Hong Kong government.
In September 1953, Chinese shore batteries fired on a Royal Navy launch on antismuggling patrol in international waters, killing seven and wounding five servicemen.

然而，这并不意味着香港与新中国的关系始终一帆风顺。广东当局在关闭香港边境后不久，便在罗湖和文锦渡（两个主要过境点）架设高音喇叭，猛烈抨击英国和香港政府。中华人民共和国边防人员嘲讽香港同行，威胁说一旦中华人民共和国解放香港，就要伤害他们的家人。殖民当局担心亲北京的学校会训练学生从事颠覆活动。成立于 20 世纪 50 年代的香港警队特别部门密切监视着香港的颠覆分子。1949 年 12 月，由广州当局挑起的香港电车罢工失败，表明新中华人民共和国是一股不可忽视的力量。 1951 年 11 月的一场大火导致约一万人无家可归。1952 年 3 月，一支来自广州的慰安妇在边境被拦截，殖民地警察与抗议人群发生激烈冲突。一名抗议者被枪杀，一百多人被捕，十二人被驱逐出境。当地左翼报纸试图煽动反英情绪，约一万名同情者抗议枪击事件后，政府查封了亲北京的 《大公报》六个月。《大公报》 曾转载了《 人民日报》（中共主要全国性报纸）一篇批评香港政府的文章。1953 年 9 月，中国岸炮向一艘在国际水域执行反走私巡逻任务的英国皇家海军舰艇开火，造成七名军人死亡，五人受伤。

Such heated 加热的，激烈的；愤怒的 incidents, however, were relatively rare.

Because Hong Kong depended on PRC goodwill, not to mention 更不用说 food and water from China (the Guangdong government had originally offered 提议，表示愿意（做某事） to supply Hong Kong with water for free, but the colonial government, worried that it might be used for propaganda, declined 拒绝；谢绝 the offer), to survive, the colonial government learned to forge 缔造；建立 a working 工作上的；有效用的 relationship with the new government across the border.

In December 1948, the British Foreign Office had warned that if the Communists won the civil war, Hong Kong would be like “living on the edge of a volcano.”

Grantham recalled a rather less alarming 令人担忧的；使人恐慌的 image 形象；比喻 of Hong Kong’s position at the edge of the PRC.

“The attitude of the Chinese authorities towards Hong Kong 系 was a combination of passive 被动的；消极的 hostility with occasional outbursts 爆发 of active 积极的；主动的 unfriendliness 不友好；敌意: rather 颇，相当 like a pot 锅 on the kitchen stove 炉灶; the pot being Hong Kong.

中国当局对香港的态度是一种被动的敌意，偶尔还会爆发主动的不友好情绪：这很像厨房炉子上的一口锅，而这口锅就是香港。

Normally 通常地 the pot would be kept at the back of the stove 炉子 伴随状 gently 温和地；缓慢地 simmering (v.)炖；慢煮, but every now and then 不时；偶尔 the cook 厨师，炊事员 —the Chinese government —would bring it to the front of the stove when it would boil (v.) fiercely 猛烈地；激烈地.

通常情况下，这个锅会被放在炉子后面慢慢煨着，但时不时地，厨师——也就是中国政府——会把它拿到炉子前面，这时锅里的东西就会剧烈沸腾。

我问: 这里 when it would boil fiercely, 其因果先后逻辑是, 先 沸腾 ,再被拿到炉子前面; 还是先拿到前面, 才会沸腾?

► DeepSeek:

根据原文“when it would boil fiercely”的从句结构, 以及“when”引导的时间状语从句功能，这里的因果先后逻辑是：锅（pot）先被移到炉子前面（bring it to the front of the stove），然后才“猛烈沸腾”（boil fiercely）。

“when”引导的时间状语从句，既可以表示“当……时”同时发生，也可以表示先后，但这里从句动词是“would boil”，是一种规律性、重复性的“会沸腾”，暗示每次移到前面后，就会发生沸腾。

从逻辑和常识推断，移到前面的动作是原因，沸腾是结果。

这句话用“炖锅”比喻中国社会或政策常态（simmering 温和煨着），而“拿到炉子前面猛火沸腾”比喻政府偶尔采取激烈措施或制造紧张局面。显然，是因为“拿到前面”（位置改变，受热更强）才导致沸腾，而非沸腾了才拿到前面。

After a while 过了一会儿 he would move it to the back of the stove again.
We never knew 宾 when the pot was going to be brought to the boil.”
