In India, the individuals who sacrificed themselves in this way were called satis, from the Sanskrit word for "a good woman," by association with the goddess Sati. In Hindu mythology, Sati is the wife of Shiva, and she immolates herself in protest against her father’s lack of respect for her husband. In one telling, her faithfulness is such that she feels no pain from the fire.

在印度，以这种方式自我牺牲的人被称为 “萨蒂” （Sati ），这个词源于梵语，意为“贤良的女子” ，与女神萨蒂（Sati）有关。在印度教神话中，萨蒂是湿婆神的妻子，她自焚以抗议父亲对丈夫的不尊重。在一种说法中，她的忠贞让她感觉不到烈火的灼烧。

the custom whereby a Hindu widow is willingly cremated...

Whereby (通过该方式)，相当于 "by which" 或 "through which"。在这里，它引导一个定语从句，解释 "the custom" 的具体内容，即 "通过这种习俗，寡妇被火化"。

Scholars who study how colonial governments managed their subjects generally focus nowadays more on the cultural aspects of colonialism than on its political or economic aspects.
For example, they often see colonial education as a potent tool for making students useful in the new colonial hierarchy, producing subordinate citizens, and separating colonizers from colonized while creating a proper colonial elite.
Similarly, enforcing Western ideals of gender relations helped European colonialists control their subjects.
In India, for example, the British introduced a minimum age for marriage and, against Hindu custom, urged widows to remarry.
In 1829 they outlawed suttee, the custom whereby a Hindu widow is willingly cremated on the funeral pyre with her deceased husband as an act of devotion.
Although many Indians supported the attempts to end the practice, some scholars have seen outlawing suttee as a way for the British to show their own moral superiority and to justify colonialism.
In China, efforts by European women to end the traditional practice of foot binding helped legitimize the semicolonial Western presence there. 如今，研究殖民政府如何管理其臣民的学者通常更关注殖民主义的文化层面，而非其政治或经济层面。例如，他们常常将殖民教育视为一种强有力的工具，旨在使学生在新殖民等级制度中发挥作用，培养顺从的公民，并在建立殖民精英的同时，将殖民者与被殖民者区分开来。同样，推行西方性别关系理念也帮助欧洲殖民者控制其臣民。例如，在印度，英国人规定了最低结婚年龄，并违背印度教习俗，敦促寡妇再婚。1829 年，他们取缔了殉葬（suttee）习俗，即印度教寡妇自愿与亡夫一同火化，以此表达对亡夫的虔诚。尽管许多印度人支持废除殉葬的做法，但一些学者认为，取缔殉葬是英国人彰显自身道德优越感并为殖民主义辩护的一种手段。在中国，欧洲女性为结束缠足这一传统习俗所做的努力，有助于使西方在华半殖民统治合法化。
